President's Message

Unless our educated classes, whether they have specialized in the arts, literature, or sciences have also an interest in, and an intelligent appreciation of, the social, political, and economic problems of the society in which they must live their lives, they may have received an education which they may not use effectively. The approach to these problems through the development of interest and appreciation therein depends on a sense of personal responsibility to the community and the state. In other words, we must develop a sense of citizenship if there is to be a well ordered society in which to live and enjoy a richer life.

Briefly stated, we have developed during the past decade or so, as a result of our amazingly rapid advances in technological and other fields, a highly specialized attitude toward education on the part of the students and faculty in many of our universities. Many are thinking only in terms of education for individual competence, with the result that breadth of learning, background subjects, and even cultural ideals are being sacrificed in the rush for utilitarian knowledge which is so much in demand, especially in the professional fields and in the professional schools. The fact that social and economic trends might seriously impair the usefulness of such highly specialized knowledge has received scant consideration. Economic stability and social harmony have been taken for granted—government would solve all such problems as might arise, relieving the individual of any responsibility save to himself and his own career.

It is a proper function, therefore, of our state universities today to readjust the balance between education for individual competence alone, and education for breadth, for background, for cultural development, and for citizenship, in order to promote the best interests of the community in which we live. The University of Illinois expects to meet this situation with frankness and deal with it without sacrificing any of those fundamental values which our educational experience has taught us apply equally well in any situation—including the present. It is, in my opinion, equally mandatory on the University to produce men and women, who, when face to face with life in a world that is far from perfect, in a world that measures success too often by material success regardless of the means employed, will use their knowledge for the common welfare of their fellow men.

TO THE STUDENTS OF ILLINOIS:

WALTER W. WILLIAMS
President, Board of Trustees

It is a pleasure to present to you greetings from the Board of Trustees and to congratulate you upon the decision which you have made to take advantage of the opportunity that is yours to secure an education at our great University.

Through the years, the rapid progress that has been made by the University of Illinois, I am sure, has been due to a great extent to the ever-growing host of young men and women of whom our student body and alumni are composed. The Board of Trustees, in advancing the welfare and reputation of the institution in every way possible, needs the continued interest and support of the public, alumni, faculty and staff, and the entire student body. I am sure that we may continue to rely upon you now as students to do your part, and also later when you have joined the ranks of our alumni.

THE COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

DEAN MELVIN L. ENGER

Established in May 1867, when the Board of Trustees adopted the report of its committee on Courses of Study and Faculty, the College of Engineering is one of the oldest on the campus. The report of the committee recommended that the University "provide courses in Mechanical Science and Art, Civil Engineering, Mining Engineering and Metallurgy, and Architecture and Fine Arts." Instruction in the College of Engineering began on January 1, 1870.

Since 1871-72, when the four curricula of Mechanical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Mining Engineering, and Architecture were first announced, the College has grown steadily and rapidly. At present, the College of Engineering offers thirteen curricula administered directly by the College, and in addition the curriculum of Chemical Engineering, administered by the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

The Dean of the College of Engineering is also the Director of the Engineering Experiment Station, the purpose of which is "to conduct investigations and make studies of importance to the engineering, manufacturing, railway, mining, and other industrial interests of the state." The work of the Station includes research by all departments of the College of Engineering and also the Department of Industrial Chemistry. While a number of the investigations are made in cooperation with industries or engineering societies, a large portion of the research carried on consists of independent study.

The results of the numerous researches completed by the Experiment Station from December 8, 1903, the date of its founding, to the present have been published in two hundred eighty bulletins. Occasionally the Station has published circulars, totaling twenty-five in all, containing articles of timely interest, information of importance, and material not readily accessible in other sources.

In 1927, the serious congestion in all of the laboratories of the Engineering College led to the appropriation of $500,000 by the General Assembly for the erection of a Materials Testing Laboratory.

The Materials Testing Laboratory, completed in 1929, is of Georgian architecture and the chief feature of the building is the large crane bay which contains the testing machines. The bay is 147 feet in length, 41 feet in width and the crane has a lift of 50 feet. The pit for the 3,000,000 pound testing machine extends fifteen feet below the crane bay, or basement floor. The weight of this machine and foundation, not including the specimen in the machine is 280,000 pounds.

In addition to housing the testing machine, the building contains the offices, classrooms, and laboratories of the Department of Theoretical and Applied Mechanics, as well as space for some of the work in Civil and Highway Engineering.

MELVIN L. ENGER, Dean of the College of Engineering, will complete his thirtieth year on the University faculty this spring. He was born in Decorah, Iowa, in 1884. He began his undergraduate work at the University of Minnesota and later transferred to the University of Illinois, receiving three degrees from the University; the Bachelor of Science degree in Civil Engineering in 1906, the professional degree of Civil Engineering in 1911, and the Master of Science degree in 1919. When Professor A. N. Talbot retired as the head of the Department of Theoretical and Applied Mechanics in 1929, Professor Enger succeeded him in this position. Later when Acting Dean Willard was appointed President of the University in 1934, Professor Enger was nominated to head the College of Engineering. Many engineering honorary societies and fraternities are among his activities, including the American Society of Civil Engineers, Tau Beta Pi, Chi Epsilon, Sigma Xi, Sigma Tau, and Mu-San. In many of these he has held prominent positions.

DEAN MATTHEW T. MCCLURE

THE COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS AND SCIENCES

The largest college in the University attained its present status in 1913, when the College of Literature and Arts and the College of Sciences were combined to form the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences with the late Kendric C. Babcock as Dean. Since then the College has endeavored to integrate instruction in both the humanities and the sciences.

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences has two particular functions. First, it enrolls students in specialized and pre-professional curricula; for instance, pre-medical, pre-law, pre-journalism, chemistry, and chemical engineering. Second, it provides the resources for a "liberal" education. "Liberal," means a program leading to a well-rounded personal development; that is, a program in which the studies emphasize factors that contribute to a general knowledge and interpretation of the forces, tendencies, conflicts, and problems of life, rather than lead to a specific individual career. Because of the wide range of interests thus encountered in so large a student body, the College necessarily offers many fundamental courses of other colleges as electives. Instruction in rhetoric, romance languages, social sciences, and mathematics for students in other colleges in the University is also provided. So great has this burden become that now slightly more than half of the total energy of the teaching staff has been devoted to the instruction of students enrolled in other colleges.

The College is at present considering means of offering greater opportunities and fewer obstacles to the better student, and more help and guidance to the student who has not yet found himself. To allow the better students to advance as rapidly as they wish, the "tutorial system" has been put into use. Under this system the student studies alone with the help of an adviser, and takes an examination when he has covered the material.

MATTHEW THOMPSON MCCLURE, Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, was born at Spottsford, Virginia, April 27, 1883. A bachelor's degree was awarded him at Washington and Lee University in 1904, where he did his undergraduate work, a master's degree at the University of Virginia in 1907, and a doctor's degree at Columbia in 1912.

Before coming to Illinois, Mr. McClure was an instructor in Philosophy at Columbia and from 1915 to 1921 a Professor of Philosophy at Tulane. He began his career at Illinois in 1921 as Associate Professor in Philosophy. In 1922 he became Professor of Philosophy and in 1926 he was appointed head of that department. The deanship was awarded him in 1934 after serving a year as Acting Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. Dean McClure is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the American Philosophical Association, and other honorary organizations.

The original purpose in building Lincoln Hall was to construct a building of the same type as University Hall. This building was to have been an addition to University Hall, but it was soon seen that it was impracticable to make such an addition to the forty-year-old structure.

The new plans called for a building just south of the Woman's Building which was to be named New University Hall, but during the construction, the name was changed to Abraham Lincoln Hall. The corner stone was laid September 20, 1910 and in it were placed many documents including The Illini of that date, The Alumnae Quarterly, and details of the future plans of the University. The structure built at that time was only half of the present Lincoln Hall; the other half not being built until 1928. The later addition included the Little Theater and the west section. The Little Theater, home of the Illini Theatre Guild, Pierrots, and Arepo, is well equipped for the presentation of plays and musical productions, having a large stage well supplied with scenery and lighting facilities.

THE COLLEGE OF COMMERCE AND BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

DEAN CHARLES M. THOMPSON

As a separate unit, the College of Commerce and Business Administration dates from 1914. However, courses in business and commercial training were offered as early as 1902 under the jurisdiction of Dr. David Kinley, Dean of the College of Literature and Arts. Until 1926, when the present Commerce Building was dedicated, this unit occupied the east wing of what is now the Administration Building.

The College of Commerce and Business Administration offers training in the principles underlying business with special training for particular business callings. It does not attempt to prepare students for clerical or similar occupations as employees, but to lay a foundation upon which successful careers in managerial and administrative positions may be built. To further this end, the development of fundamental theories rather than practices are taught in the classroom. Also, the curricula of the College are so arranged as to furnish an orderly progress in the student's development from the time he enters as a freshman until he is graduated at the end of the senior year.

The work is divided into two departments: Economics and Business Organization and Operation. The former includes foreign and domestic commerce, labor and statistics, public and private finance, banking and insurance, theory and history of economics, public utilities, and transportation. Business Organization and Operation includes accountancy, business law, business writing, and industrial administration. In addition to these commercial courses, the student is required to include in his curriculum elective courses in social science, natural science, literature, language, mathematics, and law.

Although the College of Commerce was not made a separate unit until 1914, the Legislature granted an appropriation of $125,000 in 1911 for the erection of a Commerce Building which was completed and occupied in 1913. That building is now the east wing of the Administration Building.

The enrollment in the College of Commerce increased until the need for larger quarters necessitated the construction of the present Commerce Building, which was completed in 1926 at a cost of approximately $500,000 including equipment. It is an imposing structure in Georgian architecture, very similar in appearance to the New Agriculture Building which faces it. Although the plans included a Commerce Reading Room they were abandoned since the library is nearby. The offices of the College of Commerce and a large lecture room are located on the west side of the building. Following the modern trend, the classrooms are small with the exception of two accounting laboratories and the lecture room.

CHARLES MANFRED THOMPSON, '09, Dean of the College of Commerce and Director of the Bureau of Business Research, was born in Fairfield, Illinois, on November 10, 1877. Receiving his A.B. and A.M. degrees here in 1909 and 1910, respectively, he went to Harvard University to continue his study. In 1911 he returned to the University of Illinois to continue his graduate study. He received his Doctor of Philosophy degree in 1913 from the University of Illinois and has since that time served continuously on the faculty. Promotions followed rapidly and in 1919 he was elevated to the rank of professor and at the same time was appointed Dean of the College of Commerce. The Bureau of Business Research was established in 1921, and Dean Thompson was made Director. In 1931 he accepted the McKinley Professorship of the Economics of Public Utilities and Transportation. Two honorary degrees, a LL.D. from Muskingum College and a Litt.D. from McKendree College were bestowed upon him. The Urbana Association of Commerce conferred upon him its Distinguished Citizenship Award in 1934.

DEAN HERBERT W. MUMFORD

THE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE

Agriculture has always been one of the chief industries of the State of Illinois. The College of Agriculture, which had its beginning in 1867 with the establishment of the Illinois Industrial University, has the duty and privilege of serving this industry.

As we become farther removed from a frontier type of farming, it becomes increasingly evident that in order to have a permanent agriculture, we must have intelligent agricultural planning. Such planning requires men with a broad liberal education, thoroughly trained in the newest and best methods of agriculture. The College of Agriculture offers just this kind of an education. The curriculum in agriculture aims to fit the student for the profession of farming, for technical positions in industries closely allied to agriculture, for public service or extension service relating to agriculture, or for the teaching of agriculture.

The affiliation, effected in 1888, of the Agricultural Experiment Station with the College of Agriculture enables the University to support a larger faculty and permits a higher degree of specialization than would otherwise be possible. The research projects of the Station not only help solve the practical and scientific problems confronting the farmers individually and collectively, but also serve to increase the body of facts and principles which form the basis of our agricultural teaching. It is through the Agricultural Extension Service that the College is able to offer to the people of the state the results of its investigations in agriculture and home economics.

The aim of the College is to make available, through instruction, the discoveries of science and the experience of the best farmers of all time. The new facts discovered by experimental research are put into teachable form for the benefit of students and farmers.

The Old Agriculture Building was the first building after University Hall to be located on the Quadrangle. It was really more luck than foresight that this building was located there to give a basis for the location of the other buildings. President Draper made the following statement concerning the site and building. "Erect a group of agricultural buildings to the south and east of University Hall. . . The architecture of this group of buildings should be symmetrical and picturesque, and all of the interior may be made, and should be made, attractive; when completed, the agricultural group should be proven even more fascinating to the students and visitors than other University buildings."

The Old Agriculture Building was dedicated in 1900 and was the main building of the College of Agriculture until 1923 when the New Agriculture Building was completed. Although the offices of the College were moved to the new building, the offices of the Departments of Agronomy, Dairy Husbandry, and the United States Department of Agriculture Soil Erosion Service are still located in The Old Agriculture Building.

HERBERT WINDSOR MUMFORD, Dean of the College of Agriculture and Director of the Agricultural Experiment Station and Agricultural Extension Service, was born in Moscow, Michigan, February 26, 1871. Albion College was the first college attended by Mr. Mumford. From this, he transferred to the Michigan State College where he received his Bachelor of Science degree. This college also bestowed upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Agriculture in 1927. Returning to his Alma Mater in 1895, he served as an instructor and assistant in the Agricultural and Experimental Station, attaining his full professorship in 1899. Professor of Animal Husbandry and Chief of the Animal Husbandry Experimental Station were his first positions at Illinois. He received the deanship in 1922. He has written numerous articles and two books on agriculture and is a member of many scientific and agricultural organizations. One of his most noted positions was that of membership in the American Study Commission for German Agriculture in 1928.

THE COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

The origin of the College of Education dates back to 1893, when the influence of Charles de Garmo, Professor of Psychology, who had shown a special interest in education, resulted in the creation of a chair of Pedagogics and the selection of Dr. Frank Martin McMurray as its first occupant. The chair expanded in 1900 into the Department of Education, which, in turn, became the School of Education in 1907, and at length, in 1918, received its present title, the College of Education. At the same time, the Bureau of Educational Research was established for the specific purpose of conducting research investigations in the field of education.

From its beginning the major obligation of the College has been the training of high school teachers, principals, supervisors, and superintendents. Illinois, being the third state in population, has a public school system enrolling one and one-half million pupils who are taught by forty-eight thousand teachers. Also, there has been

The Administration Building, East, which was the Old Commerce Building, was dedicated on the twenty-first of May, 1912. The building was originally intended for the use of the College of Commerce, and was used as such until the construction of the new Commerce Building. In 1925, the Board of Trustees made an appropriation for an addition to the Old Commerce Building to be used for administrative purposes. The addition included a building to the west, of the same size and same plans as the east building, and a foyer connecting them, with offices flanking it, for the use of the Registrar. In 1926, the name was changed from Old Commerce Building to Administration Building, East.

The offices of the President, the Dean of Men, the Business departments, University Press, and the Physical Plant are located in the west building. It is the duty of the Physical Plant office to direct the maintenance of all University buildings and grounds and to carry on all improvements. The Registrar's office, located in the connecting foyer, handles all incoming students and their university credits, while the Bursar's office handles all the fees and deposits received during registration.

DEAN THOMAS E. BENNER

a steady increase in the preparation required of teachers for the increasingly complex demands made upon them, particularly at the junior and senior high school levels. These facts account, in a large part, for the rapid growth of the College of Education. However, a large proportion of recent graduates of the College have entered into teaching of education in other colleges and universities.

The main curriculum of the College is, of course, general education. In addition, there are special curricula offered in agricultural education, industrial education, and home economics education. The laboratory work of the college centers around the work of the University High School, with its limited enrollment of two hundred fifty students. The courses in educational practice are conducted by the instructors of the high school, in connection with the teaching of the customary curricula.

THOMAS ELIOT BENNER, Dean of the College of Education, was born in Danvers, Massachusetts, February 11, 1894. Harvard University conferred upon him his first degree in 1914 and the degree of Doctor of Education in 1924. After leaving Harvard, he held many varied positions connected with education, including statistician and editor for the Alabama State Department of Education, Dean of the College of Education of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Chancellor of the University of Porto Rico, and visiting Professor at Columbia.

In 1931 he was appointed Dean of the College of Education at the University of Illinois. The Dean has also been a member of a senate committee of educational policy and a state legislature committee which investigated vocational education in Illinois. Among his activities are Phi Delta Kappa, Kappa Phi, and the National Education Association.

DEAN ALBERT J. HARNO

THE COLLEGE OF LAW

Prior to 1900, preparation for the bar through apprenticeship in a lawyer's office was common. In that year the Association of American Law Schools was formed. The Illinois Law School was represented and became a charter member. In 1921, the American Bar Association adopted standards bearing on legal education and expressed the opinion that every candidate for the bar should present evidence of graduation from a law school complying with those standards. Two years later, the Council on Legal Education of that Association, acting as a standardizing agency, approved a small number of law schools, including Illinois in the first group.

In training students for the practice of law, the College of Law attempts to impress upon the student the purpose of law in the social order and the necessity of its growth as conditions change. This necessarily involves studying court decisions and stressing the social and economic factors influencing the decisions and trends in the law. The instructional methods used by members of the faculty are designed to teach the student to think clearly and to the point. Throughout its program, the College aims to promote legal scholarship and research, to develop an appreciation of the highest ideals of the profession, and to inspire the consciousness of the responsibility of the lawyer to society in improving the administration of law and in furthering its wise development.

A student wishing to enter the College of Law must be a graduate of a college or university of approved standing. However, a student of senior standing is permitted to elect courses in law for the degree of Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science, provided he has an average of C in his undergraduate work.

The University of Illinois law school first occupied three rooms in University Hall. In these meager quarters, the law school continued until the construction of a new chemical laboratory was completed. An appropriation was then made by the Legislature for the remodeling of the old chemical laboratory, affording suitable quarters for the law school. The department functioned in that building until 1928 when the old Library was transformed into our present Law Building.

The present building is Romanesque in style, and is constructed of Minnesota sandstone. On the main floor are two large reading rooms accommodating two hundred persons, a faculty reading room, and the office of the College of Law. On this same floor is the library delivery room, which is open to the roof, and is lighted through a dome of colored glass. The Law Building is assigned principally to the College of Law, but the south wing is being occupied by the Department of Mathematics.

ALBERT JAMES HARNO, Dean of the College of Law and Provost of the University, was born in Holabird, South Dakota, January 30, 1889. He first attended Dakota Wesleyan University from which he was graduated in 1911. In 1914 he received his Bachelor of Laws degree, Magna Cum Laude, from Yale University. Dakota Wesleyan University also conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws in 1927. After practicing law in Los Angeles until 1917, he became Dean of the Washburn College of Law in Topeka, Kansas. For two years he was Professor of Law at the University of Kansas, and from that school he came to Illinois as Professor of Law. After one year as Professor of Law he was appointed Dean of the College. In addition to his deanship, he was appointed Provost of the University in 1930.

Dean Harno is also an honorary member of Phi Beta Kappa.

THE COLLEGE OF FINE AND APPLIED ARTS

A provision for training in Fine Arts was included, by the first Regent (president) Dr. John Milton Gregory, in the original plans made for the University. Consequently, courses in drawing and architecture were offered early in the history of the institution. Music also appeared early, and by 1897 it had been organized as a separate school. Landscape Architecture was first offered in the College of Agriculture. Thus, the Fine Arts teaching facilities of the University developed scattered among four separate administrative divisions of the University.

Although for a number of years it was felt that the Fine Arts interests on the campus should be brought into closer relationship, it was not possible to do so until 1927, when the Building for Architecture and Kindred Subjects was completed. Then plans moved rapidly. The Departments of Art and Architecture were removed from the College of Engineering, and the Division of Landscape Architecture from the College of Agriculture. All three were combined with the School of Music, and in 1931 the College of Fine and Applied Arts was established. This unifying of interests made possible a better development of professional endeavor and artistic appreciation.

The College enrolls annually in excess of five hundred professional students in nine curricula. Each curriculum is so framed that each student obtains as wide training in liberal studies as possible, yet laying firm foundations in his particular art. In addition, almost an equal number of students from other colleges in the University annually avail themselves of the cultural advantages which the College affords. The courses in history and appreciation of art, architecture, landscape architecture, and music are particularly popular with the non-professional students.

The Tina Weedon Smith Memorial Building was named in honor of the deceased wife of Captain Thomas J. Smith, and constructed from funds, the greater part of which were donated by Captain Smith. Captain Smith, who was a member of the Board of Trustees of the University and a Champaign lawyer, laid the cornerstone in 1917.

The building is constructed of brick and limestone while the interior is beautifully finished in the style of the Italian Renaissance. On the outside of the building are several tablets in commemoration of the great composers. On the first floor, in the center of the building, is a large Recital Hall which is equipped with a fine stage, organ, and has a large seating capacity. There are special provisions in the Hall to control the difference in the rate of vibration caused by the variance in the number of people in the room, thus permitting clear full tones. The Music Library on the third floor is one of the most complete libraries of music possessed by any college in the country.

DEAN REXFORD NEWCOMB

REXFORD NEWCOMB, Dean of the College of Fine and Applied Arts, is the first head of this college which was organized in 1931. He was born at Independence, Kansas and received his preliminary college training at the University of Kansas. From there he transferred to the University of California where he received the degree of Master of Arts. Next the Dean came to Illinois and obtained the degrees of Bachelor and Master of Architecture. His academic studies were supplemented by wide travel in both Europe and the Orient. Before returning to Illinois in 1918, he served on the faculties of the University of Southern California and the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College, holding professorships at both. For five years Dean Newcomb served as Director of the Department of Fine and Applied Arts at Long Beach Polytechnic (California) and for four years as Director of Adult Education and Principal of the Long Beach Evening High School. Dean Newcomb has written many magazine articles and some eleven books concerning architecture.

DEAN ROBERT D. CARMICHAEL

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL

Facilities for advanced study and research in various lines were provided by the University as early as 1872, but organized instruction under the name "Graduate School" was not undertaken until 1892. In 1906 a separate faculty was organized for graduate instruction. By action of the Board of Trustees of the University the teaching faculty of the School now includes all members of the University faculty who give instruction in approved graduate courses. The affairs of the School are administered by the Executive Faculty.

The principle aim of graduate study is the development of the power and the promotion of the spirit of investigation. In such work there is close cooperation and fellowship between instructor and student, for both are striving toward the same goal, the enrichment of human experience through the increase of precise knowledge. The student who pursues an extended course is expected to obtain a wide knowledge of his subject and of related fields of investigation, and also to acquire and begin to use the power of extending the range of what is known.

A number of scholarships and fellowships, established by the University Board of Trustees, are available to graduate students of exceptional ability and promise. University Service Fellowships are awarded on condition that their holders shall be available for teaching, research, and other University services not to exceed one-quarter time in each case. Nominations to Honorary Fellowships are made on grounds of worthiness of character, scholastic achievements, and promise of success in the principle line of study or research to which the candidate proposes to devote himself.

ROBERT DANIEL CARMICHAEL, the Dean of the Graduate School, was born in Goodwater, Alabama, March 1, 1879. He received his bachelor's degree from Lineville College in 1898 and his Doctor of Philosophy degree from Princeton University in 1911.

Before coming to Illinois he taught at Alabama Presbyterian College, Princeton University, Indiana University, and, during the summer of 1915, at the University of Chicago. In September of 1915 he came to Illinois as Assistant Professor of Mathematics, becoming associate professor in 1918, and professor in 1920. Head of the Department of Mathematics was his next position, which he attained in 1929. In 1933 he was appointed Acting Dean of the Graduate School and received the deanship in 1934. He is the author of hundreds of magazine articles and numerous volumes on mathematical, scientific, and philosophical subjects. Two of his mathematical books have been republished in French translations.

The Chemistry building is of the slow burning type of construction and shaped like the letter E. In the center is a large lecture hall seating 390 people and in each wing there are large laboratories and classrooms, including special rooms for research work. In the basement are rooms for assaying, metallurgical work, and ample storage space.

It was thought at the time of construction of the western section of the Chemistry building, which was built in 1902, that it would be large enough to accommodate the increase in enrollment for the next twenty years. However, the increase in enrollment far surpassed all expectations and it was necessary, in 1914, to build an addition to the building. This addition, the eastern section of the building, is of the same style of architecture but is of completely fireproof construction. The completed building is the shape of a square. There is more floor space devoted to the teaching of Chemistry at Illinois than anywhere else in the world.

THE LIBRARY AND LIBRARY SCHOOL

The University Library, through the General Library and its branches, provides the books needed by students for required reading for class work, many of which are kept on reserve in the North and South Reserve Reading Rooms; it provides books for much of the students' general reading, such as those in the Browsing Room; it provides books for graduate students, who in writing theses often must consult many uncommon volumes; and it provides books the faculty need in their investigations. Not having on hand all of the books required, especially for theses and investigation, the University Library borrows more than 500 books a year from libraries in other parts of the country, and also buys from European libraries photographic copies of a few manuscripts and rare books that are too expensive to purchase. In addition the Library loans about 1500 books annually to other American libraries for the use of research workers. At the present time, the University

The University Library was located in what is now the Law Building until 1928 when the New Library was completed. The New Library is constructed in the Georgian style of architecture which was chosen as it is generally accepted as an early American style. This type of architecture has also stood the test of time, which is an important feature if an architectural style is to be used for a permanent group of buildings.

It is easily distinguished from the rest of the buildings, chiefly because of the size of the windows, and because of its definite provisions for expansion. It is interesting to note that the bookstacks were built in advance of the surrounding walls and braced within themselves so as to transmit all the wind pressure from the west wall through the bookstacks to the ground. A temporary system of carrying books from one floor to another is in use at present. When the next addition is made, a book carrier system in conjunction with a pneumatic tube system will be installed.

DIRECTOR PHINEAS L. WINDSOR

Library bookstacks contain more than one million volumes. However, provision has been made for expanding to an ultimate stack capacity of five million volumes.

The Library School is a professional school for the training of librarians, and admits only college graduates since a librarian's first need is a thorough general education. Students come to it from every part of the country, and its graduates are in libraries similarly located. The instruction in the first year in the Library School covers methods and practice in library work; students who complete this year of work are prepared for positions in library service. In the second year, now transferred to the Graduate School, historical and comparative methods of treatment are emphasized; new subjects and research methods are introduced to give the student the outlook and equipment for responsible positions in large libraries where bibliographic exactness is required.

PHINEAS LAWRENCE WINDSOR, Director of the University Library and the Library School, has completed twenty-seven years of library work at the University of Illinois, having left the University of Texas, where he was Librarian for six years, to accept his present position in 1909. He is a native of Illinois, born February 21, 1871, at Chenoa, Illinois. Mr. Windsor was graduated from Northwestern University in 1895 and studied at the New York State Library School from 1897 to 1899. On leaving there he began his active work as assistant in the New York State Library, but changed to the copyright office of the Library of Congress in 1900. In 1903 he became Librarian of the University of Texas, serving there until 1909. In 1909 he accepted his present position at the University of Illinois.

Since accepting the directorship of the University of Illinois Library, he has served on the council of the American Library Association and has belonged to the Bibliographic Society of America.

DIRECTOR LAWRENCE W. MURPHY

THE SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM

In 1902, Dr. Frank W. Scott, Professor Harry G. Paul, and the late Dean Thomas Arkle Clark, with the support of Dean David Kinley, introduced a two-hour course in editorial practices, listed under the Department of Rhetoric and Oratory. Classroom study of Journalism at the University of Illinois has been continuous since that time. In the years that followed, a series of courses was developed into a Division of Journalism and a pre-professional curriculum was established. College rank and the title of School of Journalism were conferred upon the Division in 1927, as a step in compliance with a law that a College of Journalism be established at the University. The courses in journalism were at that time transferred from the Department of English to the new administrative and educational unit, and a professional program in Journalism was established.

The School offers three curricula in journalism: general program in news and editorial studies; a special and critical curriculum; and a curriculum in advertising and publishing. These sequences offer students an opportunity to prepare for various types of work in journalism and related fields. Alumni may be found in the following work: reporting, editing, general advertising, management, critical writing and reviewing, political correspondence, financial journalism, editorial writing, trade journalism, country journalism, science journalism, agricultural journalism, home economics journalism, magazine work, retail advertising, publicity, newspaper accounting, feature writing, and the teaching of journalism.

This year the School of Journalism, now the second largest in the country, put into effect a grade-point system of computing progress of the students toward graduation. The regulation places the Illinois School among the leaders in the exacting character of its requirements as well as in size and faculty strength.

University Hall, present home of the School of Journalism, was erected in 1873, five years after the opening of the University. In that year the General Assembly made its first provision for work in journalism at the University by appropriating $500 to finance and establish in a University building, a print shop for the student paper. At that time there were but two buildings on the campus. The print shop was given space in the other building and for twenty years the students wrote, managed, and set type there. The building was destroyed by fire in 1895 and from that time to the present much of the work in journalism has been carried on in University Hall. When formal class and laboratory work in journalism was begun by the faculty thirty-four years ago the work was carried on in University Hall. This building has housed the headquarters unit of the Division of Journalism since that time. The School of Journalism occupies but a portion of the Hall, other departments having space on several floors. The offices of the School are located on third floor.

LAWRENCE WILLIAM MURPHY, Director of the School of Journalism, was born in Madison, Wisconsin, on October 18, 1895. He received his Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Wisconsin, his Master of Arts degree from the University of North Dakota, and later did advanced graduate work in journalism, social sciences, and literature at the Universities of Illinois and Wisconsin. Before coming to the University of Illinois in 1924 he was engaged in the practice of journalism, military service, and teaching.

He came to the University of Illinois from the headship of the department of journalism at the University of North Dakota. In 1925 he was made director of the courses in journalism at Illinois, and in 1927, when the School of Journalism was established, he was placed at its head. In 1933 Marquette University conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Letters. In 1935 he was named permanent chairman of the National Council on Education for Journalism.

THE SCHOOL OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION

DIRECTOR GEORGE A. HUFF

Reorganized from the Department of Physical Welfare in 1932, the School of Physical Education is now rounding out its fourth year. The School is composed of the three departments, Health Service, Physical Education for Women, and Physical Education for Men.

The Department of Health conducts the hygiene courses, both required and elective. It also offers medical examinations and advice to entering students, candidates for all athletic teams, and students in poor physical condition. Control of campus sanitation and control of contagious diseases are also delegated to the Health Service.

The Department of Physical Education for Women consists of the required work for freshmen and sophomores, the professional courses for those who wish to major in physical education, faculty recreation, and intramural sport.

The Department of Physical Education for Men consists of the four-year professional course in physical education, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science, the required work for freshmen and sophomores, intramural athletics, faculty recreation, and intercollegiate athletics.

The four-year course in athletic coaching was established by Director Huff in 1919 and was the first of its type. It is similar to the summer courses in athletic coaching which he originated in 1914. Both courses had their inception in Director Huff's sincere conviction that coaches should be educated for their work, just as men in other fields. The present curricula in athletic coaching are designed to give students the opportunity to specialize in physical education courses, while at the same time they carry other academic subjects.

The Men's New Gymnasium is a brick and stone fireproof structure of the Georgian style of architecture. The first unit, erected 1924-25, contains a large gymnasium floor with a balcony on three sides containing permanent seating for approximately 3,500 people. For basketball games, temporary bleachers are erected which bring the total seating capacity up to 7,000. This unit also contains the offices, classrooms, and minor exercise rooms of the department of Physical Education for Men.

The second unit, or south wing, completed in 1926, contains a swimming pool, 32 feet by 75 feet, with a minimum depth of 7½ feet. The water in the new pool is kept at an even temperature and is frequently treated to insure its sanitation. Above the swimming pool is a gymnasium, with auxiliary rooms for corrective work. In addition, there are several basketball, handball, and squash courts. The building is so constructed that it is possible to make an addition on the north side at any time.

GEORGE A. HUFF, '92, Director of the School of Physical Education, was born June 11, 1872. The University of Illinois has always been his home, for he was born in Champaign, took his undergraduate work at the University of Illinois, and was a member of its football and baseball teams. The only time he left the campus was from 1893 to 1894, during which time he attended Dartmouth College. He returned to Illinois as Assistant Director of Athletics and Coach, becoming Director of Athletics in 1901. As a baseball coach he was unusually successful, turning out eleven championships and tying for one other in twenty-four years. In 1924 he became Director of Physical Welfare, and when this department was reorganized in 1932, as the School of Physical Education, he assumed his present position. "G" Huff saw two of his dreams come true with the erection of the new Memorial Stadium in 1922 and the University Ice Rink in 1930.

DEAN FREDERICK B. NOYES

THE COLLEGE OF DENTISTRY

The College of Dentistry of the University of Illinois is located opposite the Cook County Hospital in the clinical center of Chicago. The College is located in one of the poorest districts in Chicago as this is necessary in order to have a plentiful supply of practical cases. Here many people live who would not be able to pay for dentistry but who will allow the students, under the supervision of the staff members, to do their work, since the students charge only for the materials. In this manner both the school and the people in the surrounding district are benefited.

The College of Dentistry is the overgrowth of the Illinois School of Dentistry, formerly the Columbian Dental College, organized after the Fair of 1893. Affiliation with the University was effected in 1901 and resulted in a complete reorganization of the school.

To meet the need for dentists with both professional and technical training, the entrance requirements of the College of Dentistry have been increased to sixty hours and more medical courses have been included in the dental curriculum. The graduate in dentistry is now equipped to act as a consultant in problems which involve both medicine and dentistry.

Since 1922 the College has offered a graduate course in orthodontia leading to the degree of Master of Science. The course has now been so reorganized and extended that it prepares the student not only for research and teaching, but for the practice of orthodontia as a specialty. This affords an attractive field for the student who wants to work where the unknown and the unexplored offer endless possibilities for research.

The old building of the College of Physicians and Surgeons was rebuilt and remodeled after being partially destroyed by fire in the summer of 1901. In the same year, the Illinois School of Dentistry became affiliated with the University of Illinois, and was moved from its old quarters at Clark and Van Buren Streets into the newly remodeled building.

The Legislature failed to appropriate money for the rent of the building in 1912, and the College was temporarily closed until the fall of 1913. Since that time the original building has been extensively improved and modernized. The facilities will be greatly increased by the new Medical and Dental Laboratory in connection with the Research and Educational Hospital.

Plans for a new building have been proposed but they have been temporarily delayed by the economic situation of the past few years. It is hoped that these plans may be carried out in the near future.

FREDERICK BOGUE NOYES, Dean of the College of Dentistry, was born in Chicago on August 22, 1872. After graduating from Beloit Academy in 1889 he attended Johns Hopkins University, where he received the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1893, and Northwestern University where he obtained the degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery in 1895. At that time he began practicing dentistry in Chicago. Continuing his studies he received the diploma of the Angle School of Orthodontia in 1908, and since then has limited his practice to Orthodontia. Northwestern first claimed his services from 1896 to 1913 as Professor of Histology. Leaving there he came to the University of Illinois College of Dentistry as Professor of Dental Histology and Orthodontia. He has continued as Professor of Orthodontia since 1921 and succeeded to the deanship of the College in 1926.

THE COLLEGE OF MEDICINE

The College of Medicine opened in 1881 as a proprietary medical school known as "The College of Physicians and Surgeons of Chicago." It first became affiliated with the University of Illinois in 1897 and in 1913 all of the property and the entire issue of stock in the old institution were transferred to the University.

In two years the University placed all the laboratory branches of the school on a university basis, but funds were not available to do the same for the clinical branches until 1920. At that time the General Assembly appropriated $1,000,000 to the Department of Public Welfare and $300,000 to the University of Illinois for the specific purpose of constructing research and educational hospitals in Chicago. A plan of joint co-operation was immediately

The Research and Educational Hospital was opened in 1925 through the co-operation of the State Department of Welfare and the University of Illinois. The building is located in one of the poorest districts in Chicago since such a location furnishes a plentiful supply of patients, who cannot afford to pay for the service. These patients must prove their inability to obtain proper medical care before the doctors and advanced students will treat them. Students in co-operation with the Department of Welfare treat more than 125,000 patients a year.

The Children's Hospital and the Obstetrics Department occupy the entire second floor. On the third floor the students and staff members receive the patients, and select the more serious cases for observation and treatment at the hospital, while the others are treated and sent to their homes. Surgical rooms with balconies for observation are located on the fourth floor. Here the students watch the different operations and gain much practical experience.

DEAN DAVID J. DAVIS

drawn up whereby the administration of hospitals and schools was to be handled by the Department of Public Welfare, while the professional teaching and research work was to be turned over to the University medical staff. In this way the social work in the state is closely correlated with the medical work.

Since the time of its organization the entrance requirements have steadily been raised. In spite of the high requirements the number of applicants for admission have greatly exceeded the capacity of the school and the needs of the profession. A long waiting list has been created, made up of young men and women specially qualified by rigid pre-medical training and all with scholastic averages well up in the upper half of their college and university classes.

DAVID JOHN DAVIS, Dean of the College of Medicine, spent many years in study and research before coming to Illinois. He was born in Racine, Wisconsin, on August 10, 1875, and studied first at the Racine Academy. From the University of Wisconsin he received his Bachelor of Science degree in 1898 and his M.D. degree from Rush Medical College. In Europe he continued to study at Vienna and Freiberg, and then returned to the United States to carry out his research work at the McCormick Institute for Infectious Diseases. Before coming to Illinois he served as pathologist at St. Luke's Hospital.

In 1913 he came to the College of Medicine of the University of Illinois as Professor of Pathology and Bacteriology. He has written several treatises on Bacteriology and is the author of several other medical papers. He began serving as Acting Dean in April, 1925, and succeeded to the deanship in September, 1925.

DEAN WILLIAM B. DAY

THE COLLEGE OF PHARMACY

The College of Pharmacy was originally the Chicago College of Pharmacy. It was incorporated under that name in 1859, when a group of prominent Chicago pharmacists formed an association for "cultivating, improving, and making known a knowledge of pharmacy and its collateral branches of science." At that time no such courses were offered at any college or university in the West. The early activities of the college included the formulating of a code of ethics for pharmacies, the establishment of a pharmaceutical library and museum, and the publication of a journal known as The Pharmacist.

The College was formerly united with the University on May 1, 1896, becoming then the School of Pharmacy of the University of Illinois, and moving from State Street to Michigan Boulevard and Twelfth Street. In 1925 the course of study was lengthened to three years, and again in 1932 to four years, with the first year administered as a pre-pharmacy year. At the same time the title of the School was changed to "The College of Pharmacy" and the degree offered was changed to that of Bachelor of Science in Pharmacy. The equipment of the College now includes laboratories accommodating more than seven hundred students at one time, and a library containing more than six thousand volumes, including many rare books and complete files of all the leading pharmaceutical journals.

The chief aim of the College is to prepare young men and women for the practice of pharmacy as retail pharmacists or for positions in pharmaceutical laboratories. Its alumni, now numbering over 3,500, are largely engaged in retail pharmacy, and not a few are practicing as pharmaceutical chemists, hospital pharmacists, and manufacturing pharmacists.

The first building used by the School of Pharmacy, after it became affiliated with the University of Illinois, was located at 465 South State Street. A short time later the University obtained a five-year lease on a building on the northwest corner of Michigan Boulevard and Roosevelt Road. At the termination of the lease, the University gave up the first floor and retained the upper floors. In 1912 the University purchased, for the use of the School, two brick buildings at the southeast corner of Wood and Flourney Streets. The building occupied by the Institute of Juvenile Research at 721 South Wood Street was turned over to the School in 1926, and in 1927 the General Assembly made an appropriation of $350,000 for a modern, well-equipped addition.

The students of pharmacy also get much practical experience in the drug department of the Medical and Dental Laboratory, where they make up prescriptions and handle drugs for the cases from the hospital.

WILLIAM BAKER DAY, Dean of the College of Pharmacy, is one of the oldest members of the entire University, having entered his forty-fourth year of service to the College and his fortieth year in the University. He was born in Peru, Illinois, February 15, 1871. Dean Day attended the Chicago College of Pharmacy, where he received his Graduate Pharmacist degree in 1892.

In the fall of that year he became an instructor in the University of Illinois College of Pharmacy. In 1898 he was made Professor of Histological Botany and then Professor of Botany and Materia Medica in 1913. He served from 1914 to 1919 as acting dean of the College and then became dean.

Dean Day has been active in pharmaceutical organizations and at various times president and general secretary of the American Pharmaceutical Association and a member of its council for two decades. The Philadelphia College of Pharmacy honored him with the degree of Pharm. M. in 1917.

THE DIVISION OF UNIVERSITY EXTENSION

DIRECTOR ROBERT B. BROWNE

Correspondence courses are administered by the Division of University Extension, under regulations adopted by the Board of Trustees when the Division was established, in October, 1933. The extension service was started for the purpose of increasing the University's educational service to the state. A large number of high school graduates, who, because of economic conditions were unable to enter college last fall, have had, through this extension service, the opportunity of continuing their education.

These courses are prepared and conducted by members of the faculties of the colleges and schools of the University, not by a separate staff. They are equivalent to the courses given to undergraduates in residence at the University. The instruction is individualized to meet the needs of each student and the rate of progress is not fixed. Normally, a course must be completed within twelve months and may not be completed in less than six weeks. Enrollments may be made at any time of the year, and are open to applicants who can meet the University entrance requirements, and also to persons eighteen or over whose applications are approved by the Director of the Division.

The Division is proving very useful and effective in that it serves to expand the University's sphere of influence, making possible the creation of a state-wide campus. It enables students whose circumstances prevent the pursuit of studies in residence to continue in systematic fashion their efforts for self improvement. Besides this, it is a type of study which attracts a relatively high proportion of superior students. The reception of the University's offerings has been favorable and the work of the Division is expanding steadily.

University Hall is one of the oldest buildings on the campus, and has one of the most interesting histories. On April 20, 1871, the Board of Trustees of the Illinois Industrial College, as the University was then called, let the contract for a building that was to cost $43,700. The corner stone was laid September 13 by J. B. Turner and it was expected that the building would be ready for use the following fall. During the Christmas vacation of that year two attempts were made by unknown parties to set the building on fire. The first attempt was a complete failure, but the second would have been disastrous had it not been discovered and quickly extinguished. The work dragged on through the next year and on January 2, 1873, the contractor refused to proceed because of the unprecedented rise in building material and labor. Work was not continued until the following September when the Legislature appropriated $44,000 for the completion of the structure. Finally, on December 10, 1873, the dedication ceremonies were held, and the building was ready for use.

ROBERT BELL BROWNE was appointed Acting Director of the Division of University Extension at the time of its inauguration in 1933, and was made Director of the Division in 1934. He was born in Oshkosh, Wisconsin, on July 15, 1894, the son of a college professor. After attending the Southern Illinois State Teachers College, he entered the University of Illinois, but his education was interrupted by service in the United States Army. After the World War, he returned to the University and was graduated in 1922. His first work was as a teacher in a boy's school in North Carolina. For a number of years before returning to the campus as an instructor in Education, he was a high school principal and city school superintendent. His graduate degrees of Master of Science and Doctor of Philosophy were conferred upon him by the University of Illinois.

His field of major interest has been that of the philosophy of education and he is enthusiastic over the possibilities of adult education.

THE OFFICE OF THE DEAN OF WOMEN

Presidents of organizations, committee chairmen, and individual students may call at any hour of the school day at the office to discuss with Miss Maria Leonard or her assistants, Miss Irene Pierson, and Miss Catherine Nelson, personal or group needs. Counsel and help are always available for students, parents, chaperones, town house-mothers, and anyone interested in youth. Many confidential questions, such as finance, working hours, the home where each student lives, and adjustment to new study-environments are considered individually as each student seeks counsel. Building toward better living conditions, fine incentive for scholarship, and intellectual living for individual students, their groups, and the campus in general, is the aim of the Office of the Dean of Women.

The Dean directs the problems of unemployment for the women on the campus, making direct contact between employer and employee, and making certain that the girls forced to work have proper living quarters and will not have undue demands made upon their time. Living conditions for women are under her direction and she personally inspects all houses in which non-sorority girls room.

The Dean's office also keeps the grades of the University women, and assembles the sorority and group averages. In addition Miss Leonard assists the University women in their extra-curricular organizations and activities.

DEAN MARIA LEONARD

MISS MARIA LEONARD was born in Indianapolis, Indiana, and received her high school education there. After graduation from Butler College, she continued her graduate work in Colorado College from which institution she received her Master of Arts degree in 1910. In the same year she accepted the position as Dean of Women and Professor of Mathematics at Idaho State Normal, Albion, Idaho. She left Idaho to become Dean of Women and Professor of Mathematics at Coe College in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where she served from 1912 to 1923. Since 1923 she has served as Dean of Women at the University of Illinois. In 1924, Miss Leonard founded the national scholastic honorary society for freshmen women, Alpha Lambda Delta.

THE OFFICE OF THE DEAN OF MEN

The office of Dean of Undergraduates was created in 1902 by the late Thomas Arkle Clark for the purpose of aiding the President in the supervision of student affairs. In 1909, Dean Clark's title was changed to that of Dean of Men, the first such office in any university. Through the progressive years of Dean Clark's administration, functions of the Dean's office widened tremendously, and now include interests in every phase of undergraduate life.

FRED HAROLD TURNER, Dean of Men, was born in Hume, Illinois, on March 22, 1900. He was made assistant to Thomas Arkle Clark, Dean of Men, after graduating from the University of Illinois in 1922. In 1931 he received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in education. His thesis may be found in the Library, and it is considered one of the most authoritative accounts ever made of the Illinois Industrial University. In 1932 he was awarded the full title of Dean of Men after serving as Acting Dean during the preceding year. In recent years several of his surveys of student life at the University have appeared in current magazines. Dean Turner is intensely interested in student organizations on the campus, and is a member of both the Illini Board of Control and the Illinois Union Board of Directors.

At present, the Office of the Dean of Men is a service organization for the men of the University in bringing about closer relations between the students and the University authorities. The problems of individual students, of groups, large and small, and the multiplicity of unexpected situations which arise in connection with a large undergraduate body are the especial interest of the Dean and his assistants.

The present staff is composed of Dean Fred H. Turner, Assistant Deans Charles R. Frederick and Dwight F. Bracken, and Assistant to the Dean, David M. Larrabee. Dean Turner devotes his time primarily to students who wish to see him personally. Mr. Frederick is in charge of student organizations and activities, while Mr. Larrabee aids and advises freshmen and foreign students.

An employment bureau is maintained by the Office of the Dean of Men, under the direction of Mr. Bracken. The purpose of this bureau is to aid worthy students, both men and women, in securing part-time employment during the school year and full-time employment in the summer.

BRONZE TABLET

Students who show sustained excellence in scholarship during their junior and senior years are awarded University Honors and have their names permanently recorded on bronze tablets in the main hall of the University Library. Originally the tablets were in the Administration Building, but during the past year their location was changed. These students are given special recognition on Honors Day for their high scholarship.

EVENTS OF THE YEAR

EVENTS OF THE YEAR

SEPTEMBER—OCTOBER

Golden rule days again—"Hi, Bill," "Howya been, kid?" as upperclassmen meet, freshmen are rushed, bewildered, and pledged. Frosh listen to words of wisdom in the Auditorium, and then join the Greeks a few days later for their first real taste of University social life at the Interfraternity Dance. The Library becomes the most popular spot on campus as all rush to register in that favorite course. And then the glorious football season. The Illini enthusiasm runs wild as students "mob" the station to welcome the gridders after their dazzling 19-0 victory over Southern California. Dads are kings for the day and feted at a huge Dads Day dance, although Iowa mars the celebration somewhat by running over the Illini, 19-0. Pep meetings and even a street dance mark Illini pep throughout the season. Pledges run for the honor of their houses in the traditional Skull and Crescent Pajama Race.

EVENTS OF THE YEAR

NOVEMBER—DECEMBER

Forward, and the World's Greatest College Band reaches new heights in formations as they march down the gridiron. The huge bonfire flares as students cheer-on the team for a Homecoming victory. And the team comes through the next day for a 3-0 win over Michigan as Spurgeon kicks a beautiful field goal from far out. The Block "T" loyally boosts the Illini onward. The football season wanes, and wrestling and basketball hold the spotlight. Hour exams and term papers suddenly demand attention, but they are soon forgotten in the whirl of social activity. Clarabelle McKinley is crowned Junior Prom Queen at one of the most colorful dances of the year. Greeks again dance together at the second Interfraternity, and Independents meet at the Independent Informal. A brief time out for Thanksgiving, and students return thinking of that certain one back home and marking time for the Christmas vacation.

EVENTS OF THE YEAR

JANUARY—FEBRUARY

"The hardest winter in years," they say, and students don't doubt the words of such sages as they struggle through snowdrifts to their final exams with the mercury hovering around 20 below. But winter doesn't end with the finals. Another new snow storm heralds registration day as students wheedle the clerks for change slips and spend Dad's hard-earned money for fees. Pledges get a break as University officials oust the ancient "Hell Week," and fraternities initiate under the new "Fraternity Days" plan. Politicians polish up the red apple and pull out that box of last year's cigars as an enthusiastic crowd expresses its opinion at the polls. Skaters put on a sparkling exhibition at the annual Ice Carnival in the skating rink, and the Union sponsors another of its ever-popular popularity contests. For the sophomores the Cotillion was the bright spot of these two months, but the Minstrel Show and "Of Thee I Sing" hit the top with many others.

EVENTS OF THE YEAR

MARCH—APRIL

With the first touch of spring, the social season really swings into prominence. Males undergo a real threat but most emerge "unhooked" as the co-eds take the initiative and entertain their dates at a leap year dance in Bradley Hall. Hanley's, the social center of the campus, opens up an annex in the basement and officially christens it "The Chatter Box." Woman's League entertains with another of its teas, and Greeks dance at another Interfraternity function. The World's Greatest College Band again gains the spotlight as it presents its annual concert before a crowd that packs the Auditorium. As the last of the winter sports, fencing and indoor track, fade out, baseball rears its head, and again comes the hard "crack" of wood against leather on Illinois Field. The engineers startle the spectators with their brilliant Electrical Engineering Show. The Illio staff works overtime to check the last of the printer's copy before Easter.

EVENTS OF THE YEAR

MAY—JUNE

It's spring again, and thoughts turn, not entirely to thoughts of love, but to those fateful days ahead for the seniors and for the activity students. In the interim Mothers are honored at banquets, plays, and meetings, and the high school students are given a whirl of college life during the annual Interscholastic week-end. Track and baseball again come to the fore, and the thinclads burn up the cinders for Illinois. Then in rapid order come the pledging of Sachem and Torch, election to Mortar Board, and the placing of the Ma-Wan-Da plaque on the historic elm. Fraternities and sororities match voices and harmony in the annual Sachem and Shi-Ai sings as the seniors plan for their grand exit. The May Queen is crowned, and superior students are feted at the annual Honors Day. Commencement and the last social function for the class of 1936, the Senior Ball, wind up the year. Good luck, grads!

"G" Huff's Message

It is the hope of the University of Illinois Athletic Department that its teams may enjoy the reputation of exemplifying in their play, all that is implied in the word "sportsmanship."

The realization of this desire will be greatly aided if those in attendance at the games will display their appreciation of good manners on the field and floor. The members of the athletic staff trust that no one in the stands will in any way disregard the ideals upon which the athletic program is founded, and act in a manner that is unbecoming a crowd representing an educational institution.

Athletics in a university can only be justified if those taking part develop a leadership, personality, and character that make them better men.

With practically no exceptions the men who represent Illinois in athletics conduct themselves in a sportsmanlike manner. The sportsmanship of Illinois crowds has been famed, but recently there have been disquieting signs that we are not maintaining our previous standard. Let us make sure that Illinois, both on the field and in the stands, displays the best of sportsmanship.

CONFERENCE MEDAL WINNER

CONFERENCE MEDAL WINNER, 1935

IRVING R. SEELY

The 1935 winner of the Conference Medal, awarded each year to the Illinois athlete who is adjudged to best combine the traits of scholastic excellence and athletic prowess, was IRV SEELY, pole vaulter and captain of the track team.

In his freshman year, Seely vaulted 13' 10" in the N. C. A. A. Meet. This qualified him for the Olympic tryouts in 1932. It was in the spring of 1934 that he was unanimously elected captain of the varsity track team.

During his years of Big Ten competition he placed high in all meets and scored many points for the Illini. In addition he made high grades while enrolled in the mechanical engineering curriculum. He is the son of Professor and Mrs. Fred B. Seely.

MOST VALUABLE FOOTBALL PLAYERS

LES LINDBERG—Most Valuable Player of the 1934 Illinois football eleven—and EDDIE GRYBOSKI, given the same distinction by his teammates of the 1935 team, are the two outstanding gridders of the past two years.

Lindberg played every minute of every conference game in the 1934 season, during which time he gained more than twice as much ground as any other backfield man of the Illini team. He was a junior when chosen as the Most Valuable Player of the Illini. Gryboski, known as the "forgotten man of Illinois line," because of the way in which he was underrated the year before, was judged the Most Valuable Player of the past season. As guard, he gave more than his share of the support of the strong Illini line and broke up many plays back of the line of scrimmage. He was mentioned on several all-conference and all-midwest teams in 1935 in addition to being honored by his own teammates.

CHEER LEADERS

SHERWOOD E. WISE
Senior Cheerleader

STANLEY H. ARTHUR
Junior Cheerleader

Each year the Athletic Council elects one senior, two juniors, and a group of sophomores as cheerleaders. They not only lead cheering, but they organize rallies, pep meetings, snake dances, and take charge of the Homecoming bonfire. They foster good sportsmanship and direct the Illini enthusiasm and spirit into organized cheering and singing.

This handful of men must have an intimate knowledge of crowd psychology, and be able to use it effectively so that the team will be backed by cheers even though it is losing; and so that they may be able to handle any crowd situation that may arise, whether in keeping the crowd orderly, or when mob psychology may lead to dangers in unexpected eventualities.

In addition to their activities at home, the cheerleaders travel with the football team, their purpose being to create a sense of friendliness and good feeling among the schools. They act as ambassadors of good will, and represent the student body when the team is away.

Illinois crowds have become noted for their courtesy to visiting teams largely through the efforts of these men.

VARSITY FOOTBALL

The Illinois football team of 1935 was the most unfortunate in point of injuries to key men in my long coaching experience. Starting with the injury to Les Lindberg in the opening game and following with the disability of such men as Spurgeon, Sayre, Nelson, and Theodore, we were never able to put our full strength in the field.

These things come by cycles. We may go for years without a similar succession of accidents. It is probable that this bad luck meant the difference between success and failure.

In point of games won, our season was unsuccessful. But the team will always be renowned for being the first from Illinois to play on the Pacific Coast, where its victory over Southern California was accomplished in brilliant style.

The defeat of Michigan after the Wolverines had beaten Columbia and Penn was gratifying as it was regarded as an upset. But the fine game against Ohio State in which our eleven players played throughout was perhaps the greatest achievement. We lost to Ohio State by a single touchdown but the stand of the Illini was worthy of our best traditions.

Our boys were small but game. They lacked reserve power. They were in the running in every game. The only decisive defeat was by Iowa, but we had our chance to win this one. The type of squad we had had to play perfect football to win and that is seldom done by any team, however strong.

It is fine that the Illinois student body and alumni realized our limitations and appreciated that the boys were giving the best they had.

I shall always be proud of them.

ILLINOIS 19 U. S. C. 0

Coach Bob Zuppke led his band of Illinois football players to Los Angeles to meet Southern California in the first big game of the 1935 season. To the surprise of a California crowd of 50,000, the Illini "Flea Circus" played a brilliant game against a much heavier California team and marched back to the Middle West with a 19 to 0 victory, due chiefly to a great passing attack that completely baffled the Trojan secondary defense. Then too, the running of Lowell Spurgeon and Jewett Cole, the punting of Ken Nelson, and the speed of the Illinois forward line played an important part in the great victory.

The first Illini score came in the second period when the entire Orange and Blue line broke through and blocked Pappas's punt and took the ball on Southern California's 40 yard line. After a line play and an incompleting pass, Spurgeon dropped back and threw a long pass to Wib Henry, which the Illini quarterback ran to the 10 yard line marker. Spurgeon threw another pass to Henry who was stopped one foot short of the goal. On the next play, Henry sneaked through the line to score.

A few minutes later, Nelson blocked another Trojan punt on the Southern California 45 yard line and sprinted for another touchdown. The third score came in the third period when Henry threw a long pass, after a series of laterals, from the Trojan 45 yard line to Spurgeon who received the pass on the 12 yard stripe and sprinted to within a few inches of the goal line. Henry scored on the next play by sneaking through the Trojan line. This time, after two previous failures, Spurgeon succeeded in kicking the point after touchdown, completing the Illini scoring.

Southern California threatened to score in the fourth period but Captain Galbreath recovered a fumble by Bill Howard on the Illini 7 yard line and Nelson kicked the ball out of danger.

IOWA            19
ILLINOIS      0

Led by two of the three outstanding visiting football players seen on the Memorial Field turf during the 1935 season, the University of Iowa defeated the Illini, 19 to 0, to mar the annual Dads Day celebration, in the first Conference game of the season.

With Crayne doing most of the blocking and Simmons flashing his brilliant runs, the Iowans held the upper hand from the start of the game. The margin of victory does not indicate the intensity of the contest, however, as two Hawkeye touchdowns were results of futile forward passing efforts on the part of the Illini in the closing stages of the game.

The first Iowa touchdown was scored early in the second quarter as Simmons broke through the right side of the Illinois line behind good interference and broke for the far corner of the gridiron. The Negro flash side-stepped, swing-hipped, and changed his pace to get by the Illinois secondary and score after a run of 71 yards. Lamb's try for the extra point was good and Iowa led, 7 to 0, at the end of the half.

With two minutes remaining in the third quarter, Henry's pass to Grieve was intercepted by Ted Osmaloski on the Iowa 48 yard line. On second down Simmons broke through for 34 yards to the Illinois 10 where he was forced out of bounds by Spurgeon. Bowlin made five yards for Iowa through the line as the third period ended. Simmons lost seven yards on the first play of the fourth quarter but Ozzie was roughed up and Illinois was penalized 15 yards to the two yard line from where Crayne plunged over the goal line to score. Iowa's third touchdown came soon after.

The outstanding Illinois players were Spurgeon, who was the only offensive weapon that could make any headway, Lindberg, whose punts kept the Hawkeyes from further scoring, and Sayre, who played a great game at center.

N. U. 10 ILLINOIS 3

Northwestern, under the tutelage of its new coach, Lynn Waldorf, had too much power for Illinois in their meeting at Evanston, and the final score was 10 to 3 with the Wildcats on the top side, due to a great offensive showing in the second half. This was the third successive year the Illini played Northwestern at Evanston.

Illinois scored in the second quarter when Lowell Spurgeon kicked a field goal. Henry attempted a long pass to Dykstra which was knocked up in the air by Steve Toth on the Northwestern five yard line and then caught by Don Heap who was downed immediately. Toth then attempted to kick, but the ball skidded off the side of his foot and went out of bounds on the Northwestern 12 yard line. Henry attempted to pass but was smeared for a 15 yard loss by Longfellow and Kavatch, the Wilcat ends. Spurgeon carried the ball to the 10 yard line, and Henry's pass was knocked down in the end zone by Heap. It was intended for Dykstra. Spurgeon, with Henry holding the ball, dropped back to kick a perfect field goal from a difficult angle.

Shortly after the start of the fourth quarter Heap punted, and the ball grazed the leg of Bobby Grieve. Northwestern recovered on the Illinois 27 yard marker. After making a first down and then being set back by a penalty, the Wildcats tied the score as Hugh Duvall dropped back to the 32 yard line and, with Heap holding, kicked a field goal.

Spurgeon kicked off for Illinois, and Wally Cruice, Purple co-captain, took the ball back to the Illini 47 yard stripe. Northwestern tried two plays after which Heap took the ball through the left side of the Illinois line on a double reverse play and sprinted 43 yards to score. Duvall converted the extra point with Heap holding the ball.

Illinois was superior in two departments, passing and punting, but these advantages were not enough to offset the tremendous power that Northwestern displayed in the second half.

ILLINOIS 3 MICHIGAN 0

Although the score does not indicate the fact that Illinois gave Michigan one of the worst beatings that a Wolverine team has taken in years, the statistics do prove that point. The score was 3 to 0 in favor of Illinois, due to a great field goal by sophomore Lowell Spurgeon from the 31 yard line. It was Homecoming and, despite the rainy weather, a crowd of 25,000 turned out to see the Michigan team, fresh from victories over Columbia and Cornell and undefeated in the Conference, held in their own territory for all but two minutes of the game.

The Wolves, boasting a pass attack led by Captain Bill Renner, never got far enough into Illinois territory to use the aerial game and the two passes that they did try were incomplete. Further than that, Michigan made but one first down and that by the penalty method as Illinois linesmen roughed the Michigan punter, Cedric Sweet. Michigan gained a total of 10 yards throughout the game, which shows what a great defensive game the Illini played. Altogether, the Illini made eleven first downs but the attack bogged down every time they got within scoring range. Spurgeon also made several long gains in addition to kicking his second field goal in two weeks.

The Illinois score came in the second quarter. Spurgeon took Sweet's punt on his own 49 yard line and returned the ball to the Michigan 33. He then lost 12 yards on a reverse play, but Henry's pass to Wright was good for 7 yards and Spurgeon's pass to Henry was good for 12 yards. Henry knifed off tackle for three yards and a first down on the Michigan 22 yard line. After two incomplete passes, Spurgeon dropped back to the 31 yard stripe and, with Henry holding, booted the soggy ball squarely between the uprights 41 yards away. The ball barely cleared the crossbar as it dropped.

Michigan never seriously threatened the Illinois goal throughout the game, due to great line play by Eddie Gryboski and by George Frederick, who was substituted for the injured El Sayre at center.

OHIO 6
ILLINOIS 0

Illinois lost a hard fought game to Ohio State at Columbus, but the 6 to 0 score does not tell of the splendid game played by the Illini. Prior to the game, the question was just how badly would Ohio defeat Illinois, but the Fighting Illini fought to the last whistle, and although outweighed tremendously, they came through in great style by playing one of the greatest defensive games of the season. Coach Francis Schmidt remembered the Illinois game of 1934, when Coach Bob Zuppke's midget team had displayed a tricky forward-lateral pass attack to build up a half time lead that the Buckeyes could not overcome.

The Ohio State touchdown was scored in the first period. After Heekin kicked to Jewett Cole on the six yard line, the Illini quick-kicked with John Kanosky booting the ball from the goal line to Tippy Dye on the Illinois 49 yard marker. Dye started to the left, ran back to his own 49 yard mark, reversed his field and followed the rapidly forming interference to the goal line without an Illinois man touching him. Busick attempted to place kick the point after touchdown but the kick was wide.

The greatness of the Illinois team burst forth in the final period when the tired but plucky line stopped two scoring threats of the Buckeyes. The first stand came early in the last period when Stan Pincura completed a pass to Jumping Joe Williams on the Illinois 5 yard line. On two line smashes the Bucks lost five yards, and then the Illini secondary batted down two passes to stop the drive.

The other defensive stand by the Illini followed immediately. Williams took Kanosky's kick on the Illinois 45 yard line, and Antenucci and Bettridge started a march toward the goal. Dye completed a pass to Cuminsky, who was pushed out of bounds by Henry on the 4 yard line for a first down. The Illini line held for four downs to prevent the Bucks from scoring.

CHICAGO 7 ILLINOIS 6

Jay Berwanger, Chicago All-American, took things into his own hands in the last game on the Illinois schedule when he scored a touchdown and kicked the extra point that gave the Maroons a 7 to 6 win over the Illini. For two years Berwanger had seen Illinois defeat his team by a slim margin, but in his final intercollegiate game he evened the score. In the game Berwanger gained enough yardage to complete his goal of gaining one mile during his three years of competition. He needed 33 yards and gained 145 yards to complete a total of 1,872 yards.

Illinois scored first, late in the second quarter. After Berwanger kicked out of bounds at mid-field, Les Lindberg tossed three passes. The first to Gene Dykstra was incomplete as the ball soared out of bounds; the second, intended for Ken Nelson, was also incomplete. The third, however, sailed true to Bobby Grieve who took the ball on the Chicago 19 yard line and sprinted the remaining distance to the goal. Bill Charle held the ball for Lindberg's placement, which was not good.

Berwanger showed his stuff late in the third period. Lindberg punted from the goal line, after Illinois had been penalized for holding; then Berwanger took the ball at midfield and zig-zagged down the west sideline, dodging at least five men, until he was tripped by Nelson on the 1 yard line. Skoning, who had been puncturing the Illinois line all afternoon, twice tried to score from this point but was unable to gain an inch. Berwanger took the ball on third down and hurdled the line for the touchdown. Fareed held the ball as Berwanger calmly kicked a perfect placement to win the game.

Illinois nearly scored again in the second quarter. Nelson intercepted a lateral intended for Berwanger and ran 27 yards to the 2 yard line where he fumbled. The ball bounced into the end zone and was recovered by Chicago. After a lengthy discussion whether Nelson had stepped out of bounds, the play was termed a touchback and Chicago took the ball on the 20 yard line.

VARSIY BASKETBALL

The 1935-36 Illinois Varsity Basketball Team made a record which was unusual in many respects. The veteran team developed early and swept through the pre-conference schedule with ease, frequently demoralizing their less-experienced opponents. But when the Conference schedule was begun, the sophomore players of the opposing teams had improved more than Illinois.

The three outstanding non-conference games, De Paul, California, and Notre Dame, resulted in two victories and one defeat. Illinois won a thrilling two point game from De Paul in the Chicago Stadium and proceeded to run away from California ten days later. Notre Dame won one of the cleanest yet hardest fought games ever played in the Field House at South Bend.

In Conference play double victories were scored over Minnesota and Wisconsin but Michigan succeeded in taking both games from Illinois. The two game series with Iowa, Northwestern, and Ohio were divided.

The 1936 team duplicated the record of the team of last year in committing the fewest number of personal fouls in Conference play. But this clean play did not interfere with the defensive play of the team as indicated by the fact that only Indiana accomplished a better defensive average in the Conference season.

Although this team was known as a poor free-throwing team in most games, three of the seven Conference victories were won on free throws.

The final ranking in the Conference probably indicates the real strength of the 1936 team. Indiana and Purdue had a better man power and deserved the co-championship, while Illinois had about the same strength as Michigan and Northwestern.

VARSIITY BASKETBALL

The 1935 basketball team played a very weird and yet sensational season. Boasting a veteran team which had six men, all seemingly of the same caliber, Illinois opened the season in great style, winning six non-conference games without too much trouble, only to hit a snag with the opening of the Conference schedule, when they fell behind the leaders and never gained the top throughout the entire season. Winning seven games and losing five, the Illini finished in a three way tie for third place with Northwestern and Michigan.

Two seniors, Howie Braun and Howie Benham, and four juniors, Harry Combes, Bob Riegel, Wilbur Henry and Jim Vopicka, formed the six-man team. All were equally good and until the end of the first semester, when Benham became ineligible, they were all used, each one seeing service at least half of every game. All but Vopicka were letter winners from the year before. There was no captain for the 1935 team because Coach Ruby, at the time for the election last year, believed that neither Benham or Braun might be a regular on this year's squad. At the close of the past season, Braun was unanimously elected as the leader of the team.

The squad was one of the fastest in the Conference, but the inaccurate foul shooting and erratic goal shooting cost them several games by close margins, which, if the games had been won, would have made the team a championship contender. Bob Riegel played a great game at center, but he was not up to his form of the year before as a point maker, although his defensive work was better. Harry Combes, one of the flashiest players ever to perform for the Illini, alternated at guard and forward during the season and played both positions well. His 100 points in twelve Conference games led the Illini scorers and also placed him tenth among Conference sharpshooters.

Wilbur Henry, handicapped by a football injury, had a hard time getting started this past season and his scoring punch was greatly missed in the early games of the Conference schedule. However, he came back toward the close of the season to play his characteristic good game at guard. Braun, one of the smallest, smartest, and scrappiest players in the Big Ten, played a great game all year. His scoring improved, and his speed enabled him to intercept numerous passes, to recover fumbled balls, and to be a fundamental part of the fast break offense used by Coach Ruby this past season. He was one of the standouts in the team's success.

Howie Benham, in his one semester of competition, was one of the best scorers on the squad. Not a very good starter, he was almost always on the bench as the game began, but he was a good, fast, accurate man when he did get into action. He was greatly missed during the second semester. Jim Vopicka, an all-state performer in high school, was the only non-letterman to be a regular at the start of the season. Last year he played a substitute guard position but this year was shifted to forward. With the continual shifting of the Illinois lineup during the early part of the schedule, he was at guard and also at center. Marty Markworth, a man who played three years as a substitute, was a third senior to receive a letter for his diligence and effort. Two other juniors received letters during the past season, playing most of their time during the latter part of the schedule. They were Hale Swanson and By Blout. Both are good men and have excellent prospects to break into the lineup next season.

Perhaps the outstanding event of the past season was the resignation of Coach J. Craig Ruby, who resigned to enter business after fourteen years as head coach of Illini teams. He leaves a commendable record as his teams hold an advantage of games won over every team in the Conference with the exceptions of Purdue and Indiana. Whoever the new coach may be, he will have a hard time equaling the coaching record, personality, and ideals of Coach Craig Ruby.

In the past, Illinois teams have played their best games at home, but this year they lost three games at home and two on foreign floors. Michigan was the only team to win both games from Illinois, while the Illini defeated Wisconsin and Minnesota twice.

Graduation of eight lettermen from the championship team of 1934, the loss of twenty-one track men through ineligibility, and the inability of Eckert, Dufresne, Van Meter, and Adams (winners of fifteen points in the 1934 Conference Meet) to compete because of injury brought Illinois one of its poorest seasons in many years.

The Illini won but one dual meet of the scheduled six, placed fifth in the Conference Indoor Meet and seventh in the Outdoor Meet. The indoor season was marked by the rise of three unheralded sophomores, Duane Cullinan in the hurdles, Chuck Pollensky, high jumper, and Al Mitizia, pole vaulter. Captain Irv Seely established himself as one of the greatest of Illinois vaulters of all time by winning the Conference for the third consecutive time and setting new records at the Armour Tech and Butler relays.

The outdoor season gave promise of an improved team, with the return of Grieve for the dashes and the availability of Bob Riegel for the high jump, but Indiana won a close meet by capturing the mile relay. Michigan, with one of the three strongest teams in the United States, took the Illini in stride. Illinois went to Lafayette the next week and defeated Purdue for the only dual win of the season, with firsts by Pete Cromer and Kenny Speer.

In spite of the hard luck which pursued the squad the men kept their spirits up and most of the men entered in the Conference Meet outdid themselves. Captain Seely won the pole vault again and Riegel tied for first in the high jump with a leap of 6 feet, 3 5-8 inches. Grieve ran the hundred in 9.5 seconds and the 220 in 20.9, establishing Illinois records in both.

The 1935 track team was but a shell of the team which, the previous year, had scored a great upset by winning the Conference outdoor championship. Coach Don Cash Seaton had few lettermen left from his title winning team but with new material moulded around the few remaining lettermen he developed a team which won one of three dual outdoor meets and scored 181½ points in the Big Ten Meet, to capture seventh place.

Captain Irv Seely, a great pole vaulter; Vin Van Meter, a javelin artist; Verne Eckert, a 220 dash man; and a very few others were the nucleus of the squad which first reported for practice. There were several promising sophomores, including Bob Riegel in the high jump, Bob Grieve in the sprints, and Duane Cullinan in the hurdle events, and a senior, Fritz Wehling, in the broad jump.

The season began with the Kansas Relays, in which there were four Illinois entries. Cullinan was entered in the high hurdle race, Grieve in the 100-yard dash, Seely in the pole vault, and Van Meter in the javelin. At the completion of the meet, Grieve, Van Meter, and Seely all gained second places, but Cullinan failed to show in the hurdle event, which was won by Sam Allen of Kansas.

Fifteen men were entered in the Drake Relays. The 440-yard relay team and Grieve won their respective heats in the preliminary races the first day of the meet. However, in the finals Grieve and the 440 group gained fourth places, Seely tied for second in the pole vault, and Van Meter took fourth in the javelin.

The dual meet season began with a home engagement against Indiana, and the Hoosiers won, 69 to 62. Don Lash of Indiana ran the two-mile race in 9:29.3. In the meet Illinois won five events: Grieve won the 100-yard dash, Seely the pole vault, Riegel the high jump, Van Meter the javelin throw, and Fordham and Adams tied for first in the broad jump. Speer finished third in the 100 while Grieve and Weith finished second and third in the 220. Frey won third in the 440, Ruhnow third in the 880, Baughman third in the mile, and Galland third in the two-mile. Cullinan and Wright took second and third in the high hurdles; Mitizia and Thomas tied for second in the pole vault; Ringquist gained third in the shot put; Avery and Boroff tied for third in the high jump; Polasky took third in the discus; Mitizia and Waller won second and third in the javelin; and Jansen took third in the broad jump.

Illinois won the meet at Purdue by a 75-to-56 score. Illinois won eight of the fifteen events and took a majority of the second and third places to gain a big advantage in the final score. Grieve won the 100-yard dash as well as the 220. Weith finished third in the 100 and second in the 220. The Orange and Blue swept both the 440 and the javelin. In the former, Ken Speer led Frey and Smith to the tape and in the latter Van Meter paced Waller and Mitizia. Illinois won the mile relay with Craven, Speer, Smith, and Barth running. Cromer won the low hurdles with Cullinan third; Riegel won the high jump with Avery third; Seely won the pole vault with Thomas second; while Ruhnow and Baughman placed second and third in the 880, Baughman third in the mile, Galland third in the two-mile Cullinan and Wright second and third in the high hurdles, Adams and Fordham second and third in the broad jump, and Ringquist second in the discus and third in the shot put.

Grieve bettered one record and tied another as Michigan defeated the Illini, 81 to 45. Bud Evans' mark of :09.8 was tied by Grieve in the 100-yard dash and Evans' record of :21.3 was lowered two-tenths of a second by Grieve. Illinois scored three other firsts as Riegel won the high jump, Van Meter the javelin, and Seely the pole vault.

Twelve men were taken to the Conference Meet at Ann Arbor. Only two men qualified in the preliminaries. In the finals Illinois scored 18½ points as Grieve finished second to Jesse Owens in the 100-yard dash. Seely won the pole vault with a leap of 13 feet, 6 inches. Riegel tied for first in the high jump, and Grieve took third in the 220. The mile relay team took fourth place. At the close of the year no captain was elected for the 1936 season.

Three dual meets were listed on the Illinois indoor track schedule for 1936. As in the outdoor meet of the year before, the Illini won one of the three. Indiana and Notre Dame showed their heels to Coach Seaton's men, while Illinois whipped Ohio State.

The first meet was against Indiana in the Armory with the Hoosiers on the long side of a 56 to 48 score.

Lowell Spurgeon was the Illinois star as he won the high jump and broad jump. Illinois also won four other events as Robinson, Huntley, and Brunton, and Wright, Gill, and Brunton scored clean sweeps in the high and low hurdle races. Grieve won the 60-yard dash and Al Mitizia won the pole vault. The Illinois relay team forfeited the mile race to the Hoosiers as the meet was already lost when that event came up.

The Illinois win over Ohio State was somewhat expected as the Buckeyes were without the services of Jesse Owens. Two marks were hung up by Illinois participants in the meet. A world's record in the 320-yard shuttle high hurdle relay was set by the Illinois team of Cullinan, Gill, Huntley, and Robinson.

Illinois won the mile run, 60-yard dash, 70-yard high hurdles, broad jump, 75-yard low hurdles, two-mile run, and the pole vault. Albritton, Buckeye colored high jumper, equaled the Ohio State high jump record with a leap of 6 feet, 5½ inches. McGraw won the mile for Illinois. Spurlock took second in the high jump; Grieve and McClure took first and second in the 60-yard dash; Frary and Mitizia took second and third in the shot put; Speer took third in the 440; Huntley and Robinson took first and second in the high hurdles; Brunton and Spurlock took first and third in the broad jump; Harry Gaines was second in the 880; Cullinan, Gill, and Wright swept the low hurdles; O'Connell won the two-mile; and Mitizia and Hackett took first and third in the pole vault for Illinois points. The record breaking shuttle relay was run as an exhibition.

Illinois gained grand slams in the high jump and 60-yard high hurdles, but to no avail, as Notre Dame took the final indoor dual meet, run at South Bend, by a 54 to 50 score. If the Illini had won the final mile relay, they could have taken the meet, but the Irish quartet tied the Notre Dame record to win the race and the meet. Illinois won six first places.

Illinois scored 15¼ points to take fourth in the Conference Meet at Chicago. Grieve won the 60-yard dash in :06.2, Jack Robinson took third in the high hurdles, Spurlock tied for second in the high jump, and Hackett tied for fourth in the pole vault. Huntley in the high hurdles, O'Connell in the two-mile race, and the mile relay team, all placed fifth, thus to complete the Illini scoring.

VARSITY BASEBALL

Although the baseball season of 1935 closed disappointingly with a defeat in the final game against Purdue that eventually cost the Illini the championship, the team as a whole made a good record. Illinois finished in a tie with Chicago for second place in the Conference with a record of seven victories and three defeats.

The Conference season opened at home when Illinois won from Ohio State, 5-2, by excellent pitching and fielding. In this game, his first start in Conference baseball, Swanson struck out fifteen men and allowed but three hits. The Illini then took to the road for three games, winning a double-header at Wisconsin but losing to Ohio State when the Buckeyes went on a hitting spree.

Pershell's pitching was a feature of a non-conference interlude at home against Notre Dame, although the Illini lost 2-1.

After beating Purdue here, the Illini journeyed to Michigan, where Swanson pitched another fine game, shutting out the Wolverines, 1-0. Swikle drove in the only run. Back on Illinois Field, our championship hopes were jolted when Chicago had a five-run inning and won, 7-4.

Illinois had a good day with the bat at Northwestern, winning decisively, but the return game here could not be played. To stay in the championship race Illinois won the Interscholastic game from Michigan handily, much to the satisfaction and enjoyment of a fine crowd. After this came the unsuccessful invasion of Purdue.

To summarize the season, the team enjoyed fine pitching from Swanson and Berg in practically all the games. The team also fielded well, but its hitting was not effective in crucial games.

ILLINOIS 5 OHIO 2

Illinois opened the 1935 Conference baseball season with a 5 to 2 victory over Ohio State, as Hale Swanson, sophomore pitcher, allowed three hits and struck out 15. The Illini victory was its sixth straight, since Illinois Wesleyan and Illinois College had been beaten two and three games respectively.

It was a well-played ball game from an Illinois standpoint, as there were no errors chalked up against the Illini, whereas Ohio State was guilty of three miscues. These were largely responsible for their defeat, as no Illinois runs were earned. Stormy Swikle led the attack for Illinois with two base hits, while Prosenjak marked up two of the three blows made off Swanson's delivery. Prosenjak's home run over the right field fence was responsible for both Ohio State runs. This homer was the first to clear the right field barrier in four years.

Prior to the start of the game, there was a minute of silence in reverence to the memory of Carl Lundgren, veteran coach, who died the preceding summer. Athletic Director George Huff and Coach Wallie Roettger led the tribute.

There was no score in the ball game until the last half of the fifth inning, when the Illini garnered three runs. With one out, Swanson was safe on Captain Alex Clowson's error. Moyer struck out. Wib Henry hit to the pitcher for the third time, but the blow was too hard for the pitcher to handle, and all runners were safe. Freddie Reinhart singled to right to score Swanson, Henry taking third and Reinhart reaching second on the throw-in to the plate. Red Duffner singled past third to score both runners and complete the scoring for that inning.

The final tally of the game came in the eighth when Captain Ben Lewis doubled to left, took third on a passed ball, and scored as Swikle beat out a bunt down the first base line.

Coach Roettger's men turned in one of the largest scores of the year when they defeated Northwestern by a one-sided score of 12 to 2. The Orange and Blue scored in every frame but the first and fourth.

Illinois collected a total of fifteen hits, and these combined with ten Wildcat errors were more than enough to win the game. Swanson, pitching for Illinois, allowed but five blows, three of which were combined in the third inning to produce two runs. Wilbur Henry was the batting star of the Illini attack, collecting four hits, one a long triple. Captain Ben Lewis singled in the fifth and followed with two more base hits.

After Northwestern scored two runs in the third inning, Illinois came back with two more scores in the fifth. These runs were the product of singles by Lewis, Henry, and Swikle, and an error by Northwestern. In the sixth, Swikle singled after Henry was safe on an error. Duffner's single and Moyer's fielder's choice combined with another error gave Illinois three more runs with one out. Pederson was taken from the box and his successor forced a double play, to end the inning.

With but three more innings to play, Roettger began to substitute in the lineup. The scoring continued, however, as two runs were scored in the seventh and one each in the eighth and ninth.

At this stage of the race for the title, Illinois was tied at the top with Chicago, each having a rating of six wins and two defeats. The second game with Northwestern was rained out. As the schedule later turned out, this canceled game might have decided the championship. If Illinois had won, they would have had a percentage great enough to top that of Minnesota, despite the fact that the Gophers had lost but two games as compared with three Illinois losses.

ILLINOIS 8 MICHIGAN 4

The annual game with Michigan on the Saturday of the Interscholastic week-end was another victory for the Illini, as Swanson turned in another fine pitching performance to defeat the Wolverine ace, Berger Larson. The score was 8 to 4, and the victory put the Illini back in first place, a spot they had lost two weeks previous in the Chicago setback.

Swanson did not have his fast ball and curve working as well as usual but he was good in the pinches. With a six run uprising in the seventh by his teammates, he pulled through to win. The seventh inning bombardment saw the finish of Larson on the mound. There were two batters hit by pitched balls, four base hits, and two errors in the seventh and deciding inning. Illinois had three errors as compared with Michigan's two, but they were not so disastrous, since all Michigan runs were earned. Both hurlers gave eight hits. Larson struck out six batters as compared with two for Swanson.

Michigan scored first with a first inning tally. In the fifth the Illini pushed two runs across the plate. Moyer walked and took second as Larson threw out Henry. Swikle hit to right field for two bases, scoring Moyer. Then Frank Russell got his first hit of the year, a single to center, which scored Swikle.

The six run rally in the seventh inning was the final scoring for Illinois. Larson hit Henry with a pitch, Swikle sacrificed, Larson hit Russell with a pitched ball, and Swanson knocked a Texas leaguer to center, scoring Henry. Reinhart hit a drive to right, scoring Russell; then Weber connected for a single, Swanson stopping at third and Reinhart at second to fill the bases. Duffner was safe on an error and Swanson scored. Rudness dropped Lewis' fly ball and Reinhart scored. Weber scored after Rudness caught Moyer's high fly. Henry then grounded past first base for two bases, scoring Duffner. Michigan came back in the ninth to push over three runs, but this rally was not enough to overcome the Illini lead.

Coach Wallie Roettger lost his chance for a Conference championship in his first year of coaching at Illinois by losing to Purdue at Lafayette by a score of 5 to 2. Illinois had beaten the Boilermakers easily earlier in the season, but Paul Elrod, mediocre Purdue hurler, had his slow ball working to perfection and although he did not strike out one Illinois batter and did allow nine hits, he was great in the pinches and thus carried away a win and the Orange and Blue hopes for the title.

Swanson, who had been beaten once before by Ohio State, pitched for Illinois and was relieved later in the game by Howie Berg. Both the Illinois batters and pitchers looked better than those Purdue had to offer, but the Illini downfall came in their failure to hit in the pinches. Illinois out-hit Purdue, but left eleven men stranded on the bases, while only three were left on base by the Riveters. Besides the weakness in hitting, Illinois contributed enough errors to give Purdue the four runs which were the deciding margin.

Duffner had three hits, including a home run, and Henry also collected three blows. The other seven members of the team collected just three hits among them. Illinois scored in the first inning when Red Duffner connected with a fast ball and batted it over Hoagland's head in left field for a home run.

The other Illinois tally came in the eighth inning when Henry beat out an infield hit and took second on an overthrow. McDonald batted for Russell and singled to center to score Henry. This made the sixth time that McDonald had pinch-batted for some other player during the season. The first five times, he had walked. Swanson worked at a good pace throughout the game, striking out seven Purdue batters.

This was the final game of the season and Minnesota won the title by defeating Purdue the following week.

Hek Kenney, producer of excellent wrestling teams at Illinois for many years, had another splendid squad in the 1936 season of competition. Topped by the champion of champions, Ralph "Ruffy" Silverstein, national intercollegiate title-holder at 175 pounds, who alternated between that weight and the unlimited class all season, the squad split up its wins and losses, but turned in outstanding performances in every meet.

The team opened its season against Iowa State, where it won easily, losing only one match and drawing one. The next night, while the team was still on the road, it encountered the powerful Cornell College squad. The Cornell wrestlers trimmed the Illini by a slight margin, and came to Champaign-Urbana two weeks later for a return bout. This time Coach Kenney shifted his lineup so that his better wrestlers faced tougher opponents. The Illini won revenge by beating the Cornell team, Kenny Carpenter and Charley Prout starring for Illinois.

The Illini opened their Conference season at Ohio State, where they trimmed the Buckeyes, 36 to 20.

Coach Billy Thom's Indiana matmen, who always fight it out year after year with Illinois for the Big Ten title, next came to the New Gym, and defeated the Illini, although Silverstein remained unbeaten by whipping Charley McDaniel, national champion, who outweighed Ruffy by 30 pounds. Pete Pakutinsky lost for the first time in his collegiate career when he choked, after being hit hard early in his match, and was unable to continue.

To end their home season the Illini won from Chicago, with a top-heavy score of 22 to 10. They were without the service of Ken Carpenter, who severely injured his arm earlier in the week in practice.

Finishing in third place in the Big Ten, the gymnastic team, champions in 1935, concluded a successful but somewhat disappointing season. It was disappointing because a championship seemed certain when the season began. But ineligibilities and injuries soon made these hopes mere dreams. Joe Rehor, Howie Kaplan, and Marv Monk, all stars, were the ineligibilities who gave the team its biggest blow. Then, midway in the season, Paul Prather, Clarence Hale, and Bob Sapora suffered injuries which, although they did not put them out for the year, handicapped them greatly.

Only four seniors will be lost to Coach Hartley Price by graduation this year. They are Captain Art Fisher, Mel Sader, Clarence Hale, and Bud Trabert. Fisher, a good example of an athlete who knew very little about tumbling when he started as a freshman, was a Big Ten champion for two years before he was graduated. Trabert was a performer on the flying rings, one of the events in which the Illini were exceedingly strong this year. Mel Sader won his points with competent exhibitions on the high and parallel bars. Hale, one of the most determined and gamest men on the team, performed on the side horse.

Starting the year against Nebraska, the Illini conquered them, 679 to 569. Then they met Turner College and Southern Illinois Teachers in a triangular meet, winning easily. Invading Penn State at Philadelphia, the Illini won again, this time by a close margin. Starting Big Ten competition, Minnesota gave Illinois its first defeat, beating them by nine points. The Illini then whipped Iowa, and Morton Junior College of Cicero to end the year. Two meets were won from Chicago by forfeit. In the Big Ten meet Minnesota won, with Chicago second and Illinois third.

With Chuck Flachmann, sensational star of the year before, lost by graduation, the hopes of the Illinois swimming team were based largely on a crew of sophomores, and these youngsters came through in fine style, although lack of experience showed at times, and possibly caused the poor performances of the team as a whole.

In the opening meet of the season, with the Purdue natators as opponents, Illinois won, 57 to 27, taking eight out of nine events. Captain Paul Vernor garnered the only win for the visitors when he splashed through an inch ahead of the favored Captain Hank Hansen of Illinois in the 50-yard crawl event.

Norm Lewis, sensational sophomore from Oak Park, swimming his first meet for Illinois, led the Manleymen in scoring by winning the 100 and 220-yard crawl races, and anchoring the 440-yard crawl relay team to an easy victory. Failure of the crawl swimmers to come up to previous hopes in the Chicago meet, however, cost the Illini a victory, as Hansen lost the 60-yard crawl and was third in the 100-yard crawl.

Illinois lost to a powerful Iowa team in the Hawkeye pool, although Norm Lewis won the 100-yard crawl.

In the next meet the Northwestern tankmen stayed on even terms with the Illini until the Wildcats took first and second in the dives. From then on it was a rout. The Illinois free style relay team claimed a new Conference record in the meet in negotiating the distance in 3:39.6 as compared with the Big Ten record of 3:40.1, set by the Illinois team of Chuck Flachmann, Butch Overman, Hank Hansen, and Jim Hickey in 1935.

Conquering five consecutive Conference opponents by top-heavy scores, Coach Ed Manley's water poloists swept through an undefeated season and emerged with the first Big Ten Championship of the year for Illinois.

Captain Foss Bennett and his mates opened the season auspiciously by swamping Purdue. Norm Lewis led the scoring with two goals, one in each period, while Johnny Erwin scored the third marker. Chicago, Iowa, Northwestern, and Minnesota then fell in rapid succession before the furious onslaught of the Illini. The Illini forward wall, composed of three sophomores, Norm Lewis, Johnny Erwin, and Johnny Brouk, proved more than capable of encountering foes of Big Ten calibre in their first year of Conference competition.

Hank Hansen, Butch Overman, and Chuck Winiarski provided an impenetrable defense that gave opposing forwards few shots at the Illini goal. Captain Bennett as goalie effectively stopped what few attempts did happen to come his way.

The efficient Illinois scoring machine rolled up 24 points in their five encounters while holding their opponents to 11. The crowning achievement of the season was the 8 to 5 licking administered to Chicago, last year's Big Ten title holders, in the second meet of the season. Coach Manley's proteges scored seven goals in the first half of this fray, an average of almost a goal a minute.

Coach Manley failed to make a single substitution in his championship aggregation all season. Among this year's seven only Bennett, Hansen, and Winiarski are seniors, and Overman and the three sophomores will be back to form the nucleus of another strong squad next year.

The Illinois soccer team enjoyed a moderately successful season during the fall of 1935, winding up the season with a .500 standing, winning three and losing three. Three new teams, Wheaton College, Ohio State University, and the Decatur Soccer Club, appeared on the schedule. The Illini were able to down the first two of these teams in closely contested encounters, but were unable to cope with the more experienced booters from Decatur and lost two 1 to 0 thrillers to them in a home series.

Especially gratifying to the local squad was a hard-earned win over the Buckeyes of Ohio State at Columbus. The game was a nip and tuck overtime battle which finally ended 1 to 0, in favor of the Orange and Blue. The score was made in the last few minutes of an overtime period.

Among the outstanding players on the Illinois squad were Captain Dan Pflager, who directed the team from his right fullback position, Jack Macferran, who paired up at the other fullback post, Dan Brown and George Sterba, operating at right and center halves respectively, "Nails" Florio, inside right, Ray Costabile, right wing, and Ed Yeaton, goalie.

A unique idea conceived by Coach King James McCristal and members of Centaur, honorary soccer society, provided an interesting research phase to the soccer season. It came in the form of an indoor game, the first ever to be played in the Armory. Two teams, made up of the varsity players, foreign stars now enrolled in the University, and other chosen players on the campus, engaged in the unprecedented type of contest and provided enlightened entertainment for the interested band of spectators. The rules were modified to conform to the playing conditions and resulted in a speedy and high scoring game.

Illinois fencers, faced with a season schedule of nine bouts and six of these away from home, came through with a record of five victories and four defeats. The final Conference standings showed Illinois in second place, behind the undefeated University of Chicago squad. The standings this year were decided on the outcome of the dual meets during the season, not on the results of the Big Ten Conference Meet which has been the deciding factor in the past. The Illini defeated Purdue and Wisconsin in Conference competition while losing to Ohio State, Chicago, and Northwestern.

For individual honors, three Illini fencers traveled to Chicago for the Conference meet after the regular season had been completed. Captain Bill Chiprin, competing in the foils, was defending the Conference title he won last year, while John Boland in the epee and Hy Kaplan in the sabers were competing in their first conference meets. Chiprin and Jack Winters of Chicago fought it out for foils honors after each had won five bouts apiece and with the count 5 and 5, Winters won the next touch and the championship. Hy Kaplan lost only two of his six bouts and also took second place, while Boland tied for third with two of his rivals.

This is only the second time in eight years that Illinois has not won the Conference title. The team, under the guidance of Coach Herb Craig, won the title from 1928 through 1933, dropped down to second in 1934, went back up to first in 1935, and then fell to second again this season.

Bill Chiprin, captaining the team, although only a junior, lost but one bout all year, that to Herschel Greenburg of Northwestern. He is going to New York in June for a tryout for a berth on the U. S. Olympic team.

VARSIITY POLO

The sport of society, polo, has two entirely different seasons at Illinois, and each has its own set of rules and, to some extent, fans.

The outdoor season in the spring of 1935 was particularly disastrous for Illinois. Missouri started it by living up to expectations and outplaying the less-experienced Illini in the opener, 11 to 2. Frank Mercer, Ivan Kovacic, Ed Anger, Captain Hall Teeman, and Art Douglas were members of the Illinois team. Then Ohio State and Iowa State defeated the Illini riders by scores of 15 to 2 and 6 to 1, respectively.

Despite the poor showing, it was felt by the coaches that the Illini had showed considerable improvement, and since only one regular was graduating, prospects for 1936 looked good.

Two early season indoor games at Michigan were both disastrous for Illinois as the Wolverine riders were victorious in both games. When the regular season began in the second semester, Gene Bauer and Ed Anger were ineligible, but prospects brightened as the Illini rallied in their first regular match to whip Ohio State, 13½ to 9½. Mike Gordon revealed himself as a new star by scoring eight goals, and duplicated this number of scores in the second game as the Kenyon College team beat Illinois, 22½ to 10½. Not much hope was held for a good showing against the Blackhorse troop of Chicago, but the Illini played brilliant polo to defeat the officers. Acting Captain Fred Wright starred in these games with smart defense play, while Mike Gordon continued to be the offensive star. The poloists then defeated the crack Third Artillery trio from Ft. Sheridan.

After losing their opening meet of the season to the eventual Conference champions—Chicago—and tying their second start with Northwestern, 3 to 3, the Illinois tennis players continued through the rest of the 1935 season by rolling up four straight shut-out victories, during the course of which only three sets were lost by Illini players.

Captain Joe Moll was the only Illinois man to score a victory as Chicago defeated the Illinois team, 5 to 1, in the first meet. Nelson McIninch, Illinois player, received an unexpected setback from Trevor Weiss in one match, and Bruce Hicks, making his first Big Ten start, showed up well but also lost. In the Northwestern meet the next day, McIninch upset the great Wildcat star, George Ball, while Captain Moll beat Russell Ball, brother of George, in another singles match. The doubles team of Dick Lewers and Bruce Hicks was also triumphant for Illinois.

Opening the home season, Illinois defeated Indiana, 6 to 0, breezing through four singles victories and two doubles wins without being pushed. Iowa was the next victim, losing, 6 to 0, as Jack Wright, playing in his first Big Ten match, lost one set for the only Illini reversal of the engagement. The Illini won every set in defeating Purdue, 6 to 0, in the next meet.

While Bruce Hicks was pushed slightly, there was no trouble for the other three Illinois men—McIninch, Moll, and Wright—as the Illini closed their dual meet season by toppling Notre Dame, 7 to 0.

Chicago won the Big Ten meet with the Illini ranking third. The doubles team of Bruce Hicks and Dick Lewers got through the semi-final round, but failed to win in the finals.

During the winter of 1935-36 Casper Nannes of New York was appointed to succeed Gerald Huff as Illinois coach for the 1936 season. Dick Lewers was elected Captain for the remainder of the season.

INTRAMURAL

The University of Illinois intramural system, which has been copied by major universities and colleges all over the United States, enjoyed another fine season in 1935-36 under the direction of E. J. Manley, Director of Intramural Athletics.

Chuck O'Hern served as senior manager, assisted by a staff of two junior managers and a number of sophomores. Dick Crook served as one of the juniors all year, while Bob Roos resigned after one semester and was succeeded by Derrick Brewster, who rounded out the year.

Fraternities again dominated the spotlight in intramural competition as the independents failed to take advantage of equal opportunities for competition. Sports in which over two thousand men students at the University competed during the school year were: baseball, basketball, bowling, soccer, ice hockey, volleyball, track, handball, golf, cross country, swimming, tennis, wrestling, boxing, horseshoe, water polo, and ping pong. With such a variety of sports, it is thus possible for practically every male student to find some athletic activity in which he is interested and may compete.

The Illini intramural system, inaugurated by "G" Huff, athletic director, and built up by Mr. Manley, swimming coach and Director of Intramural, divides competition into two classes, fraternity and independent. The organized houses compete for a participation cup trophy, while the independents strive for individual awards. Champions in the two divisions play for all-University championships in many of the sports.

In sports where students enter and play as individuals, there is no distinction made between independents and fraternity men, but members of organized houses have any points they may win added to their house records.

Ice hockey, started last year, had another successful season this year as playing times were shortened and scoring rules revised to make the game more attractive.

INTRAMURAL CARNIVAL

Out of a potpourri of pigs, parasols, wheelbarrow jockeys, canes, seamstresses, runners, wrestlers, and boxers, one new athletic carnival record emerged when the annual Intramural show for 1935 was presented to 1,200 spectators in the Armory.

Marion McKenzie, a persuasive Phi Omega Pi, by a successful combination of coaxing and jabbing from the rear, made a husky porker think the finishing line was a feeding trough, so she brought home the bacon in the hoggly-woggly race in 20 seconds. This time set a new carnival record, smashing Hettie Seaman's 1933 performance by 7 6-10 seconds.

With the exception of the hoggly-woggly event, the boxing events were the most interesting on the night's bill. Most exciting of all was the fight which saw Tiny Morris rally to win a close decision from Hank Bruder in the heavyweight division. Bruder, a gridder, was fatally injured last summer while serving as a forest ranger in the Rocky mountains.

The most finished exhibition of all came in the 118 pound fight, in which Jimmy Polos pummeled John Whitney so hard that Referee Paul Prehn had to stop the show in the third round. Fast, clever, cool—Polos had everything his way from the start.

Tom Urbas, a winner from the year before, punched out a close decision over Jake Nelson in the cruiser-weight division to be the only man in the boxing or wrestling ranks to repeat.

Red Gragg again demonstrated his supremacy in the wheelbarrow pushing field by shoving Adelaide Dadant to an easy first place in this event. In 1934 Gragg was high man in a similar race.

GYMKHANA

A capacity crowd witnessed what can approximately be called one of the most wholesome and successful entertainments ever to be presented on the Illinois campus when the second annual Gymkhana was staged in 1935. Every seat in the Old Gym was occupied with spectators who enthusiastically expressed their approval after every event. Before the regular show started, Coach Hartley Price was introduced to the audience. He presented a cup, the Delta Theta Upsilon (P. E. fraternity) award, to Johnny Fischer, fullback on the Illinois football squad. The trophy is awarded annually to the student in the School of Physical Education whom the judges deem most likely to succeed in his field. The judges were Chet Jackson, Weenie Wilson, and Coach Price.

The show did not consist only of the feats indicative of body control, as one might surmise, but also of novelties: comedy, classical entertainment, and frolicky dancing. For the comedy of the affair, Fred Baum presented a unique arrangement of clever dancing which, coupled with his antics of a drunken sailor, entertained the crowd.

Probably the most astounding performance of the evening was John Grimek's body muscle control act. Standing on a ten-foot pedestal, this massive structure of rippling muscles showed complete control of almost every muscle in his body.

The grand finale of the show consisted of the entire gym team performing ground pyramids. A college song was sung and the show was over. However, it wasn't over in the minds of those who witnessed it, for they beheld a group of performers who had worked hard for their entertainment. The Gymkhana troupe made several tours prior to this final performance on the Illinois campus, appearing before high school and municipal groups in many towns in the state.

INTER-SCHOLASTIC TRACK

Rockford's Bob Packard and Dave Denny led their high school track team to a championship before 1,500 Interscholastic onlookers in the 41st Annual Track and Field Meet, run off in Illinois Memorial Stadium in May, 1935. The Northern Illinois team rolled up 21 points as Packard won the 100 and 220-yard dashes while his teammate Denny took the 120-yard high hurdles and placed fourth in the 220-yard low hurdles.

Five new records were set up during the preliminaries and the finals of the two-day event. McLeod of Glenbard established a new mark in the 220-yard low hurdles, Walt David of Chrisman hurled the javelin 190 feet for a new record, and York's half-mile relay team ran to an unprecedented time during the finals. In the preliminaries Packard set a new record time of 21 seconds in the 220-yard dash and Tony Corso of Hillsboro hurled the shot 53 feet,  $\frac{1}{2}$  inch, for a new mark.

After Rockford came New Trier with 16 points, York with 13 3-5 points, and Glenbard with 12 points.

The mile run proved to be so gruelling a race that one contestant dropped out in each of the two heats because of exhaustion. Bordeau of Tilden won this event. Rohling, Arlington Height's entrant, took the half-mile by opening up on the stretch. Waterbury of Centralia failed to come close to Lowell Spurgeon's record high jump in winning this event. Tom Charles, Beardstown pole vaulter, won with a leap of 12 feet, 4 inches, but failed in his attempts to break an old record of 12 feet, 7 inches.

Only fair performances were recorded in the remaining events on the program. Hahnfeldt of Palestine hurled the discus 135 feet, 1 inch to win, and Beeler of Granite City was credited with a 22 feet, 8 inch victory in the broad jump.

INTER-SCHOLASTIC CIRCUS

The 28th Interscholastic Circus, the last for Director Chet Jackson, by his own wish, after many years of service, thrilled a capacity crowd in the Armory in the spring of 1935. From the opening event, when Mark Hindsley conducted the University of Illinois band in the first number, to the time that the last flare died on the pyramid which concluded the great show, the visitors, students, and townspeople who came to witness the great spectacle remained engrossed in the sights and entertainment which were presented before them.

Clowns, "human" animals, and various side events were constantly making the rounds of the long track surrounding the center stage where the main attractions were unfolded. The circus stunts took place on the equipment set up at one end of the vast Armory. Paul Prather, member of the conference championship gymnastics team, broke his own previous record by making 81 turns on the high trapeze in his muscle grind. Francis Preve and T. H. Cook thrilled the crowd with daring aerial maneuvers, Preve providing the high spot of the evening by going through a routine blindfolded.

The retiring director, Chet Jackson, was presented with a gold watch by the University of Illinois Athletic Association, while the circus managers gave him a cameo ring in appreciation of his splendid direction of the colorful event. Don Brown was given an engraved silver desk set as a mark of appreciation for his ten years of service as a top man for the aerialists.

K. A. Ekiss accomplished the difficult feat of spinning a 60-foot rope. Preve's iron-man act found him swinging above the crowd for two minutes while hanging by his teeth.

Transition from an over-sized body with few powers to a compact, efficient, and strong organization was accomplished this year by the Student Senate.

Under the leadership of John J. Brandlin during the first semester and Elbert L. Herron the second semester, the Senate worked out its own destiny in revising the year-old constitution and co-operated with the University Senate Committee on Student Affairs in setting up a co-ordinate system of control over student affairs. During the class election period of the first semester, the Student Affairs Committee ruled that the Senate in its existing form would be abolished at the end of that semester and that the students might devise a new body of not more than 25 members.

Elbert L. Herron was appointed chairman of a committee to revise the constitution. The existing document provided for a Senate of 54 members, including four class officers, eight college representatives, eight representatives each from sophomore, junior, and senior classes, and eighteen activity heads chosen ex-officio. Because of its large size there was a great deal of delay and difficulty in passing any legislation; consequently, the group was not granted many powers by the Student Affairs Committee.

After several weeks of consideration the revision committee drew up a constitution providing for a Senate of 24 members, 12 to be popularly elected and 12 to be activity heads. This document was adopted by the Senate with certain changes and later was approved by the Student Affairs Committee.

The new system went into effect at the beginning of the second semester and immediately proved to be far more capable in its operation than the body it superseded. A council of six members was selected by the Senate to co-operate with the Student Affairs Committee in the administration of student affairs.

The development of the Senate was regarded by many faculty members and students as evidence of increased student interest in campus activities and the willingness to co-operate with the faculty in promoting the general welfare of the University and the student body.

Student administration and faculty administration of University social functions were equalized during the past school year by the passage of the rules concerning social functions. These rules divide the functions into those dealing with general University functions and those having to do with organization functions.

To administer the general or University social functions, a joint committee, consisting of the University Senate Sub-Committee on Social Events and the Student Senate Dance Supervision Committee of five members, functioned during the past year.

The rules specify that the Chairman of the Dance Supervision Committee shall head the Joint Committee. Richard Fulmer, '36, was chairman of the Dance Supervision Committee the first semester, while Ben Railsback, '36, held the position beginning with the second semester, when the rules went into effect.

Along with the sub-committee, the supervisory group approves bids on decorations, orchestras, and programs. It sanctions patron lists for all University social functions. The joint body has direct authority over any dance committee appointed by class, council, or other organization to have charge of major functions. The printing, issuing, and auditing of tickets, and the distribution of invitations, and all matters dealing with complimentary tickets fall under the Joint Committee's supervision.

An organization which seeks to bring Christian principles into campus life, the Young Men's Christian Association is an inter-denominational religious organization, having both students and members of the faculty as members.

Membership is open to any student or faculty member on the campus. Each member is eligible to participate in any of the Y. M. C. A. activities, which range from work with pupils in Twin City grade schools to a dinner given for all fraternity pledges.

Twin City business men and members of the faculty offered their services as counselors in the annual Vocational Guidance program carried on by the organization last year. Any student may enter into conferences on vocational topics with any of the counselors.

In the comfortable lounge of the Y. M. C. A. a great number of publications are provided for all students who care to use the room. At the beginning of the year, incoming students enjoy the Y's freshman camp near Decatur, and at the same time hear discussions by student leaders and faculty men dealing with all phases of University life. The All-Pledge Dinner brings together fraternity pledges from all houses.

Organized for the promotion of Illinois spirit and loyalty by all possible means and to foster student activities, the Illinois Union occupies a leading position in campus affairs. Its membership is open to all undergraduate men students.

Headed by C. Richard Fulmer, president; Lowell Ozment, first vice-president; and Philip E. Gore, second vice-president, the Union promoted and directed events of interest to the entire student body during the school year.

Directly under the officers is the junior cabinet of eight men, who act as committee heads and directors of the events. Committees are chosen from the freshman-sophomore council, which was developed this year.

Student control over the Union is provided through the Board of Directors, to which a representative is elected from each of the major colleges in the University. Other members of the board include three faculty members, a representative of the Alumni Association, and three executive officers of the Union.

The Board of Directors determines and carries out the general policies of the Union, and elects the officers and members of the junior cabinet.

A new service put into effect this year was a guide service directed by Josef F. Wright, Director of Public Information for the University. Members of the freshman-sophomore council were trained by Mr. Wright to conduct visitors around the campus and to explain the significance and background of the various points of interest.

The advent of the leap year brought Illinois co-eds a new slant on dates as they escorted amused men to the Union Leap Year Dance. The tables were turned and it was the women who paid and paid.

Homecoming, Dads Day, and Mothers Day activities were carried on with the co-operation of the Woman's League.

The Union was behind the Illini in full force last fall, sponsoring pep meetings before every home game and holding a huge mass celebration for the team when it returned from the victorious Southern California trip.

The annual Union Week with tournaments in ping-pong, bridge, bowling, and billiards was an outstanding event of the spring for the hundreds of students who participated.

House decorations, pep meetings, football game, banquets, reunions—all combined to make the twenty-sixth Illinois Homecoming an outstanding event of the first semester. Eighty-six fraternities, sororities, and organized groups added a festive spirit to their houses for the returning alumni. Phi Delta Theta, Alpha Chi Omega, and Stratford House won first place honors in their respective groups.

Despite the intervention of rain, the week-end was enjoyed by the thousands of alumni who came from other parts of the country as well as the Middle West to join the celebration. Mary J. Courtright and Lowell Ozment took general charge of the activities of the week-end for the Woman's League and the Illinois Union, respectively.

Fifteen hundred couples, one of the largest crowds ever to attend a dance on the campus, heard the music of the late Earl Burtnett and his orchestra at the annual Student Alumni Association Homecoming Dance in the New Gym. The Tribe of Illini acted in co-operation with the Association.

Mortar Board, the Woman's Group System, and other campus organizations held receptions for their alumni members. The Theatre Guild play, "Riddle Me This," was presented before large audiences both Friday and Saturday nights.

Three thousand Illini Dads crowded the campus October 26 to take part in the fifteenth annual Illinois Dads Day celebration, which was a success despite the loss of the football game to Iowa. The week-end program was directed by Louise Proctor '36 and Philip E. Gore '36, representing the Woman's League and the Illinois Union, respectively.

A feature of the program was the Theatre Guild play, "No More Frontier," which was presented Friday and Saturday nights before appreciative audiences in the Lincoln Hall Theatre.

On Saturday morning the Dads were taken on a tour through the University buildings, beginning and ending at the Student Center. Many students and parents attended the Cavalry Club horse show in the Stock Pavilion and saw Lloyd McDaniel win the senior jumping contest, while Natalie Keene carried off the honors in the co-ed class. Maurice Shroyer and Alberta Shroyer were victorious in the mixed jumping competition.

After the disappointing, though spectacular football game, the Chicago Blackhawks played an exhibition hockey game in the Skating Rink. Fraternities and sororities then held their annual dinners for the Dads.

The Men's Glee Club gave an entertaining concert Saturday evening under the direction of LeRoy Hamp. The program included two numbers arranged in the style of Fred Waring. Five hundred couples danced to the music of the Noble-Donnelly's "Gold Coaster" orchestra at the annual Dads Day dance sponsored by the Student Alumni Association.

The Student Alumni Association, an organization for promoting a better understanding between the alumni, the undergraduates, and the prospective students of the University of Illinois, is closing its fourth year of existence.

Its rise has been rapid since its founding in 1932, but the past year has been one of the most successful and productive in its short career. One of the most extensive programs for furthering University interests in Illinois communities was launched in February under the leadership of President Robert Armstrong. Under this plan the Association is fostering the organization of Illinois county and community groups of undergraduate students to carry on directly the work of the Association in their own home communities. Organizations representing thirty-seven Illinois communities are being formed this year and a much larger number will be completed next year.

The major activities of the Association on the campus are embodied in its social program. Student Alumni dances were attended by large crowds on Dads Day and Homecoming, between semesters, and during the Inter-scholastic week-end in May. This social program serves to entertain University students, and to finance the Association's promotional work.

The Student Alumni Association is affiliated with the Alumni Association, and shares the Alumni Association office in the Student Center. Through its officers, advisers, board of directors, and the members of the sophomore and junior boards, the Association carries on its work on the campus and in the state at large.

The Alumni Association acts as the connecting link between the huge body of 110,000 graduates and former students of the University of Illinois and the present student body and faculty.

In its offices in the Student Center are located extensive files of information about each graduate and former student of the University. A force of stenographers and clerks keeps the files constantly up to date.

The Association publishes the Illinois Alumni News, a monthly magazine, under the editorship of Carl Stephens, General Secretary of the Association. This magazine, which is distributed to all members of the Association, contains communications from the secretaries of each of the sixty-four graduating classes of the University, news items about former students and graduates, and other information of interest to alumni of the University. In addition, the News stresses the present time, and includes a wide variety of campus news, all of which helps to keep the bond strong between students and former students.

An outstanding accomplishment of the Association this year is the completion of the organization of the University of Illinois Foundation. This foundation, which has grown out of the Alumni Association's Alumni Fund organization, is now a complete and separate function, occupying quarters in the general Alumni Office.

For the purpose of keeping the University alive in the hearts of former students, and to keep them informed on University affairs, the Alumni Association has operated continuously since 1873.

The Engineering Council consists of those engineering students who have been elected as presidents of their departmental engineering societies, the Editor and the Business Manager of The Technograph, and a representative from the Illinois Union.

The purpose of the Council is to encourage the participation of engineering students in extra-curricular activities on the campus, and to sponsor such student engineering activities as the All-Engineering Smoker, St. Pat's Ball, Illinois Student Engineering Exhibit (Engineering Open House), and to assist in the production of the Electrical Engineering Show.

The President of the Council acts as Chairman of the St. Pat's Ball and the other members of the organization make up the Committee. The Technograph acts as the official organ of the Council and announces, publicizes, and directs student activities and achievements on the engineering campus.

With the abandonment of the engineering exhibit a few years ago, the Council fell into a complacent lethargy; but with the reintroduction of the exhibit last year, the Council again sprang into prominence and is to-day the leading organization on the engineering campus.

The E. E. Show, which is held every other year, alternating with the Engineering Open House, is the outstanding concern of the Council this year. Through its displays, it has attained national prominence, and the Council has done much to aid in its success.

The Agriculture Council consists of the presidents of all the specialized student clubs in the College of Agriculture, and of any members of the Agriculture Club who hold a National Agricultural Council office. The nine clubs whose presidents make up the Council are Field and Furrow, Horticulture Club, Agricultural Engineering Club, Hoof and Horn, Dairy Technology Club, Agricultural Economics Club, Dairy Production Club, Agricultural Education Club, the Agriculture Club. The presidents are elected every semester by popular vote of the respective clubs.

The Council sponsors and supervises all student activities in the College of Agriculture, meeting at least twice a semester to assist the specialized clubs in preparing and carrying out their programs and in regulating their finances. It also aids the President of the Agriculture Club, who acts as Chairman of the Council, in planning meetings for his club. The Council votes on amendments to the clubs' constitutions or by-laws before they are submitted to the faculty.

The work of the Council is synchronized with the student-faculty advisory committee of the College. The Council is organized to further the development of agriculture and kindred sciences and to bring about a closer understanding between technical and professional agriculture.

To promote the general welfare of the Freshman Class and to help sponsor beneficial activities, the Freshman Council was begun the first semester as the first organization of its kind at the University.

The Council sprang from the aims of Richard Trusdell, President of the Class during the first semester. Shortly after he had assumed his office, he presented to members of the Student Affairs Committee an idea for a governing body for first-year students. Under Trusdell's leadership, the Council, during the first semester, drafted a constitution. Besides the President of the Class, who is Chairman during the first semester, the group was made up of fourteen freshmen who are selected by petition by the President of the Class along with the advisory board, consisting of the Assistant Dean of Women, the Assistant Dean of Men in charge of student affairs, and the Assistant to the Dean of Men in charge of freshmen.

The same fourteen members, the first semester president, and the new president, George Kiningham—acting as Chairman—comprised the Council for the second semester.

Inaugurating its program for the year, the body sponsored Freshman Day, Friday, January 10, in Smith Memorial Hall. This program was an innovation in University administrative affairs for aiding particular classes.

SENIOR BALL

Climaxing their campus social life, the Class of Nineteen Hundred Thirty-five ushered in Senior Week with the annual Senior Ball. The spring atmosphere of June 3, the dance music of Freddie Martin and his orchestra, and the formal garden decorations, all had their share in making this dance the highlight of the 1934-35 social season.

The New Gym was decorated to resemble a formal garden, the walls being covered with lattice work, vines, and smilax. Paper drapes of pale blue and pink hung from the ceiling, and soft liquid lights played on the dancers from above. The colorful, luxurious gowns of the women and the dignified black and white of the men's attire provided a pleasing contrast to the pale delicate color scheme of the decorations. The band shell was a brilliant white color, which brought to mind many scenes from A Century of Progress, the lighting and design being much the same as those viewed on the Chicago lake front during the World's Fair.

The area to the south and east of the Gym was enclosed with a canvas and furnished with chairs and benches to resemble a Japanese garden. This garden, dimly lighted with Japanese lanterns, provided an ideal escape from the warmer temperatures inside the Gym. Here the couples could relax during intermissions and quench their thirst with cooling punch.

In keeping with the formal decorations, the programs consisted of soft, white leather covers tied with a blue cord. The seal of the University was stamped in gold upon the leather, while the first page carried an ink sketch of the newly-decorated Student Center, making an effective and original program.

Freddie Martin and his internationally famous orchestra added distinction to the affair with their smooth rhythm and original novelty numbers. The band, making its first appearance at a midwest college dance, made a decided hit with the crowd by introducing the steel guitar, an instrument seldom used by dance orchestras. Clad in white formal jackets and seated in their brilliantly lighted modernistic band shell, they presented an impressive picture to those attending the Ball.

Much of the formality of the affair was omitted, and the ceremonies surrounding the coronation of the Queen of the Ball were carried out in a simple fashion. The Queen, Genevieve Anderson, had been previously chosen at the Queen's Ball two weeks prior to the dance. She was escorted to an improvised throne at the south end of the floor accompanied by her maids of honor, Anne Ash, Mary Jane Chandler, Betty Murdock, Margaret Ramsey, and the members of the committee. Here she was presented with a huge bouquet of flowers while the dancers applauded enthusiastically. As she was seated thus, surrounded by her maids of honor, she was indeed a picture of regal beauty.

Freddie Martin and the orchestra again assumed the spotlight, and the dancing continued until early morning. This affair, the most anticipated social event of the year, marked the close of the second semester. The friendly crowd, simple but impressive decorations, and the fine music and entertainment of Freddie Martin and his orchestra combined to make the Senior Ball a fitting farewell to campus activities. The dance will not soon be forgotten by the graduating class of Nineteen Hundred and Thirty-five.

JUNIOR PROM

A bit of "Jolly England" was introduced into the Old Gym Annex on the evening of December the sixth, as the Class of Nineteen Hundred and Thirty-seven presented the annual Junior Prom. The music was furnished by Jack Hylton and his celebrated English orchestra, which had just completed a tour of the East. Making their first appearance at a college prom, they created a sensation with their novel arrangements and entertaining specialties.

Even the damp weather failed to mar the festive spirit of the occasion, for the crowd made the evening a gala affair in spite of the elements. Not only was there a capacity crowd of dancers, but the balconies were likewise filled with spectators wishing to share in the color and glamour of the affair. The ceiling of the Gym Annex was hung with black and gold paper drapes, giving the dance floor a subdued lighting effect and creating an atmosphere of regal splendor. The bandstand was decorated in the same color scheme, with glistening gold musical notes upon a background of black. Inserted between these notes, also in gold, appeared the letters "J. P." The soft, pastel shades of the crepe and chiffon gowns and the brilliant hues of the prints and taffetas offered a direct contrast to the classic somber black and gold decorations. Couples wishing to smoke or rest retreated to the east wing of the Annex, which was elaborately furnished to resemble a fraternity living-room. The programs were entirely in accord with the formal decorations, the black and gold cover featuring the silhouettes of a formally attired couple, seen through a celluloid outer cover.

Entering into the spirit of the affair, Jack Hylton and his band of entertainers presented a novel revue for the dancers. Pat O'Malley, the Irish tenor, and Freddie Schweitzer, who presented instrumental novelties, kept the dancers in a jovial mood and caused the evening to pass only too quickly. Near the end of the program, Jack responded to the many requests for his own original arrangement of "Just a Gigolo." This number, featuring the inimitable style of Alec Templeton, blind pianist and special arranger for the band, was a great success.

Throughout the evening the orchestra displayed the same rhythm and versatility which had marked it an outstanding favorite upon the European continent. There, its unusual presentation of its famous "Continental Revue" gained the favor and acclaim of the European royalty.

The impressive grand march led by Ernest Kelly, Chairman of the Prom Committee, Scott Brubaker, President of the Class, and their escorts, terminated at the foot of the band stand. It was here that Miss Clarabelle McKinlay, Kappa Kappa Gamma, who had been selected by the popular vote of those present, was formally pronounced Queen of the Prom. Followed by her maids of honor, Perle Adler, Ruth Large, Ann Noel, and Mathilda Simpson, she was escorted through a narrow aisle, formed by the dancers, to the throne constructed for the occasion. There she was presented with a royal scepter and a golden crown was placed upon her head. Jack Hylton was one of the first to step forward and extend his congratulations.

The festive spirit continued throughout the evening, and as the affair drew to a close, the dancers found it difficult to say good-bye. The intimate atmosphere and the fine music of Jack Hylton and "his boys" will remain as a permanent memory in the minds of those who attended the Prom.

The class of Nineteen Hundred Thirty-eight made its formal debut on January 17 with one of the most brilliant social events of the winter season. The dance owed no small measure of its success to Joe Sanders' celebrated "Nighthawks," who furnished the music for the occasion. Because of the sub-zero weather which prevailed at the time, the Gym Annex possessed an added feeling of warmth and coziness.

Glistening crystals and blue and gold streamers were hung above the heads of the six hundred fifty formally dressed couples who attended. The orchestra was set off with a dark blue background on which the white letters "S. C." appeared. The program carried out the scheme of the decorations with a blue cover and an inside leaf of gold.

Due to the illness of the "Old Left Handers," the orchestra was led by Jack Swift, ex-Illinus and vocalist of the orchestra. The popularity of the band was clearly shown by the enthusiastic reception of the dancers.

The dancing was interrupted only long enough for the Grand March, led by Al Bitzer, Class President, and Larry Kerns, Chairman. The combination of excellent music and impressive decorations stamped the Sophomore Cotillion as one of the most successful social functions of the year.

As a fitting climax to a successful Freshman Week, the Class of Nineteen Hundred Thirty-nine presented the Freshman Frolic on the evening of January 18th. Joe Sanders' Nighthawks, whose melodies had thrilled the sophomores the previous night, were back on hand to enliven the spirit of the dance.

RICHARD V. TRUSDELL
President

The Class proved its originality by choosing from among its members the most beautiful freshman girl and the most handsome freshman boy. The winners, Frances Douthitt and Jimmy St. Cerny, were presented to the twelve hundred dancers late in the evening.

The programs carried out the originality of the dance. The cover consisted of a gold page stenciled with the letter, "F," and an inner leaf of green on which the words, "Freshman Frolic," were placed so as to appear through the stenciling. The bandstand was also decorated in the class colors of green and gold.

The Frolic marked the close of the social functions for the first semester, a semester outstanding for its brilliant dances and enjoyable affairs.

The football spirit prevailed over the New Gym on the evening of November twenty-third when the Senior Class held its annual Senior Informal Dance. The music for the occasion was supplied by Harry Sosnik and his Edgewater Beach Hotel orchestra, whose harmonies and entertaining specialties kept the seven hundred couples in high spirits throughout the evening. As a highlight of the dance, the graduating Illini football stars were introduced to the dancers from the bandstand.

The decorations were done entirely in black and white, and though simple, they created a very pleasing effect.

A white gauze ceiling was hung over the dancers, and an inverted black triangle on which the white letter "S" was inscribed formed a modernistic background for the orchestra. In striking contrast to the decorations were the wine-colored programs on which a dancing couple was silhouetted in silver. The inside page was of a corresponding shade of red.

The simplicity and informality of the dance gained it the unanimous approval of the attending students and visitors.

The exclusive Pan-Hellenic Ball was held on the night of March 21, 1936, in the beautiful ballroom of the Urbana-Lincoln Hotel. The favored few who were allowed to attend this unique affair were the representatives of the sororities and fraternities in the Pan-Hellenic and Interfraternity Councils. The strictly formal attire of the men and women gave the dance a distinctive and sophisticated atmosphere.

The 250 couples attending the Ball danced to the rhythmic tunes of Tiny

Hill and his orchestra. Tiny, who weighs nearly 300 pounds, kept the crowd in a jovial mood throughout the evening by his clever wit and mannerisms. The "Paul Whiteman of the West," as he is commonly termed, was originally from New York, but came here on a recent tour of the Middle West. The evening's entertainment consisted of several novelty numbers by Tiny and his orchestra. These, combined with the fine atmosphere and excellent music, helped to win for the dance the approbation of all present.

Amid colorful spring surroundings and an atmosphere of Indian life and customs, the Independents presented their annual spring formal in the Skating Rink on the evening of May 1. This dance, sponsored jointly by the Independent Council and the Woman's Group System, truly lived up to its Indian name, "Mi-Hila," which means spring festival.

The evening's entertainment was capped by the formal pledging of Tomahawk, an organization honoring sophomore independent men who are prominent in activities, and by spectacular coronation of the Queen of the Independents. Impressive ceremonies, retaining many of the rituals used by the Indians, accompanied the pledging of these men and also the crowning of the Queen.

Louie Panico's well-known orchestra furnished the music for the dancing, his "swing" rhythm proving very popular with the dancers. As a special feature the band played the number it has made famous—"The Wabash Blues." Mi-Hila, climaxing a highly successful social season for the Independents, proved one of the most colorful dances of the spring semester.

The Independents made their debut of the Campus social season on the night of December 7, 1935, with the Fifth Annual Independent Informal. This popular social function was held in the Gym Annex, which still retained the classical black and gold decorations used by the Junior Prom the preceding night. The unusual combination thus formed by the formal decorations and the informal attire of those present, gave the affair a new distinction.

The music was furnished by Lloyd Auer and his fourteen Virginians, who lived up to their name, "The Unique Band of the South." The novel orchestrations and unusual personalities presented by the band received the hearty acclaim of the three hundred couples present.

This dance, sponsored jointly by the Woman's Group System and the Independent Council, again proved to be one of the most enjoyable social functions of the year. The rapid increase in the popularity of this dance is no doubt due to the intimate and informal atmosphere, which has become one of the prevailing characteristics of the affair.

Rugged overalls, gunny sack tails, and gaudy gingham dresses lent a rural atmosphere to the Skating Rink on the night of April 17, for here amid bales of hay, cornstalks, and kerosene lanterns, the Ag School reaped its annual harvest of fun and frivolity. Charlie Straight and his versatile orchestra, direct from the Gold Coast Room of the Drake Hotel in Chicago, furnished the music for this gala occasion.

Early in the evening the Queen of Agriculture, selected from among the students of the Home Economics Department, was presented with a silver loving cup, and from her throne of baled hay she ruled over the one thousand agrarians who attended. The Queen selected for this occasion was also to preside over the Spring Blossom Festival. As a climax to the evening's entertainment, the Queen awarded the most appropriately dressed couple with a rolling pin and a corncob pipe.

Taking the place of the customary grand march was an old-time square dance. As the evening progressed, the dancers forgot all formality and dignity and engaged in exciting hay battles. The Ag Dance has become one of the most unique dances of the spring semester.

Weekly mixer-dances and open-air concerts again proved the most popular social events of the summer session. The committee, however, was not satisfied with just the usual affairs. As an added feature, an

All-University Dance was held July 26 in the Skating Rink, with Isham Jones and his nationally known Columbia Broadcasting Orchestra providing the music. For those of a more serious nature the committee presented the Slaviansky Russian Chorus in a stirring concert given in the University Auditorium on August 1.

The crowning of Mary Holme as queen proved the highlight of the Summer Prom, held on Robeson's Roof the evening of August 2. The ideal weather and fine dance music of Allyn Wiese and his orchestra stamped the prom as a fitting climax to a very enjoyable summer.

Woman's League stands for the woman power of the University of Illinois. It is the most influential and active of the feminine groups on campus. Not only does it foster a spirit of unity among its 3,000 members, but it also offers opportunities for self-government and upholds the democratic ideals which are well in keeping with Illini tradition. On Wednesday of every week the League provides a social hour for the meeting of old friends and the making of new ones.

Membership is open to all; registration in the University automatically makes a place for every girl. Woman's League, in conjunction with the Y. W. C. A., extends a welcoming hand each year to prospective students through the Campus Sister movement whereby the newcomer secures a "Big Sister" to advise and help her in any problems of campus life.

The First Council of Woman's League is the central governing body of the League, and its completely representative membership makes it possible for every woman on the campus to know the policies, affairs, and announcements pertaining to the League.

Woman's League includes the Woman's Group System, Gold Feathers, and Orange and Blue Feathers. The Woman's Group System, an integral part of the League, organizes the independent women into social groups. Orange and Blue Feathers and Gold Feathers, the freshman and sophomore organizations, respectively, promote scholarship, friendship, and loyalty among the underclasswomen. It also provides excellent opportunity for them to develop executive ability and individual talents.

The Woman's League sponsors three co-operative houses, Alpha, Beta, and Campbell Cottage. The proceeds from the annual spring theatrical production of the League go to maintain these houses. In addition to the above the League, working in close harmony with the Illinois Union, helps to plan and manage Homecoming, Dads Day, and Mothers Day celebrations.

The one eminent purpose of Woman's League is to further a spirit of unity among University Women.

After being introduced to campus life through Orange and Blue Feathers during their freshman year, sophomore women have the opportunity of continuing and furthering activity work in Gold Feathers. Gold Feathers strengthens the ideals of loyalty and democracy, and advances the principles of friendliness, co-operation, and scholarship.

Members of Gold Feathers are given every opportunity to develop and demonstrate their individual abilities. Among their many activities is serving at the Woman's League teas, which allows the sophomore girls to become better acquainted with other University women. They also attend weekly meetings, where they have the opportunity to hear prominent speakers. Scholarship and activity points are of the greatest importance in becoming a member of this organization. The latter requirement encourages participation in other campus activities and makes them feel that they are taking an active part in Woman's League. Thus it serves as a bond of unity between Gold Feathers and other campus activities.

Orange and Blue Feathers is an organization which aims to acquaint freshmen women with the traditions of the campus and to promote friendship, scholarship, and activities.

Throughout the year the organization sponsors weekly meetings at which faculty members and leaders in campus activities speak. A play, "The Trial of Peg Fairfax," which dramatizes the value of activities, is presented to the members each year. Two parties with Gold Feathers and two meetings devoted entirely to entertainment are scheduled on the program.

Requirements for initiation are a "C" average, attendance at two-thirds of the meetings, and a passing grade on an examination which covers all phases of activities. Through financial drives which are held each semester, money is obtained for the Woman's League and for the purchase of trophies to award the members who have had perfect attendance and who have made highest grades on the final examination.

The purpose of the Y. W. C. A. is to give women with a similar purpose and an intellectual outlook the opportunity to work together. It is very effective in helping them to think through their religious problems and to grow spiritually.

By being a member of such an organization each girl comes to feel that she is part of a world-wide fellowship. The Y. W. C. A. provides many committees and activities which fulfill the interests and needs of the campus woman. Each girl on the cabinet, which is the policy-forming body of the association, has a genuine interest in the Y. W. C. A. as a whole, and a specific interest in her own department as a committee chairman, Girl Reserve Leader, or Freshman Discussion Group Leader.

In this way she develops her own individuality, character, and leadership. Not only does she become particularly active in her chosen field, but she also becomes interested in all phases of Christian work. Often the training a University woman receives in this activity encourages her to carry into her later life the ideals and standards for which the Y. W. C. A. strives.

Annually since 1906, the Y. W. C. A. has sponsored a Doll Show for the benefit of charity. Dolls dressed and contributed by sororities, group houses, and individual women are entered in this show and displayed for two days. After prizes have been awarded to the best displays, the dolls are sent to charitable organizations for distribution among poor families and for use as toys in recreation centers.

Another project this group stresses each spring is the Style Show. Many University women participate in the shows, either by serving on the committees or by modeling smart spring costumes. This show provides an opportunity for an appreciative audience of townspeople and students to see how the typical Illinois co-ed furnishes her spring wardrobe.

Discussion group meetings are held each Monday and Tuesday at the Y. W. C. A. in order that freshman women will be able to profit by discussions concerning the problems of a freshman at college. In these groups the influence of the Y. W. C. A. on the University women is begun.

The Woman's Athletic Association is an organization of nation-wide scope. The associations of the various recognized universities and colleges are federated through the Athletic Federation of College Women. This Federation forms a central office for the Woman's Athletic Associations of the various recognized schools, and its purpose is to unify ideals and establish standards of athletics for college women.

The purpose of the Woman's Athletic Association is to further athletic interests and activities for the women of the University of Illinois, and by so doing to promote ideals of wholesome living on campus. The W.A.A. affords the opportunity for all women of the University, disregarding skill, social rank, and nationality, to have access, free of charge, to the equipment, observation, and instruction of the W.A.A. Through the services of the competent coaches and instructors of the University of Illinois Woman's Physical Education Department, our W.A.A. participants are given correct methods and training in every individual and team sport, and are governed in competitive play in a truly non-partisan fashion. Membership is open to every undergraduate woman on campus who completes the requirements of one sport season.

The scope of the Woman's Athletic Association is not limited to athletics alone. Orchesis, a national honorary interpretive dancing organization, is under the supervision of W. A. A., and presented two dance programs to the public this year. The Association also sponsors the Riding Club, which presented its first public show last fall with great success. The ice-skating season, recently established, has met with great favor, as shown by the large number of girls participating.

At the Homecoming football game this year, W. A. A. sponsored the sale of three thousand orange and blue balloons at the stadium. It was the first time the project had ever been tried at the University of Illinois and the enthusiasm with which it was met no doubt necessitates its continuance.

In the fall W. A. A. gives a Sans Souci party to welcome the new women to the University. The program of the organization is explained, its leaders are introduced, and the membership is encouraged. The May Festival, promoted by W. A. A., climaxes with the crowning of the popularly elected May Queen in front of the Auditorium.

The main activities of the Woman's Athletic Association, however, are concerned with the wide variety of sports afforded to its members. It is in these that W. A. A. is able to present its ideals of good sportsmanship, keen competition, and physical well-being.

The highest award given in W. A. A. is the orange chenille letter "P", which can be earned upon the completion of twelve sport seasons. At the Annual Spring Banquet, given in May, the Major I's are awarded to the new winners by the President of the Association.

The W. A. A., for convenience and coherency, has divided the school calendar into four sport seasons. No member can receive more than four sport seasons' credit, and to accomplish this she must participate in some one sport each season. The Woman's Athletic Association of the University of Illinois promotes two athletic programs—the interclass and inter-organization. In the interclass program, several teams are selected within the same class and they play the teams of another class. If every participant fulfills the requirements of the sport manager for that special sport, she is made a member of a team, regardless of her skill, and is eligible for interclass play. Each season is completed with competitive interclass games or individual matches following a period of strenuous practice. These matches stir up keen rivalry among the participants, winning combinations being anxiously picked and held together from year to year in an effort to win the coveted championship.

The team sports for inter-organization play, listed in order of the season offered are swimming, basketball, volleyball, and baseball. Winning teams and teams participating in the tournament receive points. At the end of the year a plaque is awarded to the house having the most points. Pi Beta Phi is now in possession of this plaque.

The W. A. A. system of awards is based on participation in the four sport seasons. Any members of the organization earning six sport seasons credit receives her class numerals. In previous years, numerals were awarded to all members of championship teams, but this plan permitted only the skilled players to earn them, and the large group of mediocre participators had little opportunity to obtain this award. Under the new system, however, these numerals are a reward for faithful and continuous effort and are presented by the president of the Association at the tea following the completion of each sport season.

The first sport season, which usually lasts from the beginning of school until the middle of November, includes the team sports of hockey and soccer, and the individual sports of tennis, golf, and horseback riding. The second sport season begins immediately after the first and is usually concluded with the semester. It includes the team sport of volleyball and the individual sport of ping-pong. Season three includes the team sports of swimming and basketball, and the individual sports of handball, tenikoit, and ice skating. Season four begins with the middle of the second semester and lasts until the end of the school year, and includes the team sport of baseball, and the individual sports of archery, golf, tennis, and horseback riding.

Terrapin Club, founded in 1923, strives to further interest and efficiency in swimming, diving, and life saving, and to promote a spirit of good sportsmanship and friendship among its members.

The membership of Terrapin is limited to skilled swimmers who have passed perfectly a vigorous test in swimming, diving, and life saving. This test is so difficult that never more than ten girls have become members during a single year. Of this group, the most proficient swimmers in the University are members of Major Terrapin. Minor Terrapin, which is an outgrowth of the old Tadpole Club, has been formed to prepare other swimmers for the requirements of the major club.

Terrapin presents an annual water carnival on Mothers Day. The pageant is presented in the pool of the Men's Gymnasium, because the larger space permits a more elaborate presentation. The object of this carnival is to present in the most beautiful way possible the arts of swimming and diving.

Telegraphic swimming for college women was organized at the University of Illinois in 1930 for competition between Big Ten Schools. Now it includes colleges and universities throughout the United States and is known as the National Intercollegiate Telegraphic Swimming Meet. It is the only sport in which Illinois women may enter intercollegiate competition.

Entries are limited to colleges and universities having certified sixty or seventy-five foot pools. The meets are held at the separate schools, and the results of each meet are telegraphed to the Regional Sponsors. They in turn telegraph the first ten places in each event to the National Sponsor. The National Sponsor for this year is Wayne University in Detroit.

The team is made up of the fastest swimmers in the University, the maximum number on the team being fifteen. No one may enter more than three of the six possible events: the crawl, the back crawl, and the breast stroke, at the forty and one hundred yard distances. The team was coached this year for the first time by Miss Josephine Renshaw of the Physical Education Department. Two practice meets were held, and those with the best records were chosen for the Telegraphic Team.

WOMAN'S LEAGUE SHOW

JULIA M. LAKE.....General Chairman

The well-known Pulitzer Prize play, "Of Thee I Sing," was presented by the Woman's League on February 21 and 22. This play, probably the most pretentious offered in a long list of successful shows, was well received by the campus audiences.

The story follows John P. Wintergreen's campaign for the presidency of the United States until his triumphant election on the slogan, "Put Love in the White House." Wintergreen was effectively played by Howard Wilson, a well-known actor to campus theatre-goers. It is decided that Wintergreen shall fall in love with the winner of a nation-wide beauty contest, the winner of which, Diana Devereau, cleverly portrayed by Rachel Collins, is ultimately jilted by the President in favor of the pretty and demure Mary Turner, convincingly played by Betty Moore. All of this causes international complications, particularly with France. The pompous Ambassador of France was very cleverly enacted by Fillmore Sherman.

Interwoven throughout the play are the comic adventures of Alexander Throttlebottom, the insignificant Vice-President who is always seeking recognition. Walter Draper handled this roll with professional ease and filled it with innumerable laughs. Sarah Schwartz, a newcomer to the campus, delighted the audiences with her contagious smile and clever dancing.

The minor roles were particularly well handled. Edward S. Baker as the chivalrous Southern politician, Moe Bergman as the excitable Jewish politician, Osver Carmi, Charles Dawson, and Gar Heads—all turned in commendable performances. Jane Dick, as the dumb hotel maid, added humor to the play with her dry wit, and Charles Romine gave a youthful zest to his role as the President's secretary.

"Of Thee I Sing," "Wintergreen for President," "Love is Sweeping the Country," and "Who Cares" were the popular hits in this modern comedy written by George Gershwin.

DOLL SHOW

The magical theme, "Enchanted Fairy Tales," was beautifully and artistically carried out in thirty-four scenes of the 30th Annual Doll Show. The chairman, Virginia Merriner, admirably fulfilled the two-fold objective of furnishing Settlement House children with lovely dolls and of arousing a responsive campus to the activities of the Y. W. C. A.

"The Princess and the Pea," an intricate setting of splendor, won first place in the sorority division for Theta Upsilon. Second place went to the delicate "Snow Drop" of Delta Zeta and honorable mention was given to Sigma Kappa for its delightful "Alice Through the Looking Glass" scene. Davenport House captured first place in the Woman's Group System division with the royal beauty, "The Snow Queen," while second place went to Corinna for the stately "Six Swans," and honorable mention to Alpha House for its wistful "Peter Pan." The ever-lovely "Cinderella" won first place for Lois Hackmann in the individual entries. Helen Mies received honorable mention in this division.

Members of local civic organizations were hosts to many children of the Twin Cities at the show. The little girls were dazzled by the splendor of the costumes and intricate surroundings in each scene. Small boys enjoyed especially "The Old Shoemaker" and his shop. Miniature tools and scraps of leather effectively carried out this theme for Kappa Alpha Theta.

W.A.A. ACTIVITIES

The scope of the W.A.A.'s activities embraces a large field of sports, and almost every girl is able to find some sport which she particularly enjoys.

The Riding Club, under the direction of Miss Phyllis Van Vleet, was formed last spring. Horses from Troop E of the National Guard in Urbana are used for the beginning, intermediate, and advanced classes as well as for breakfast and supper rides. After many requests, ice skating was also introduced this winter. Miss Carita Robertson consented to coach this sport. Special arrangements were made to use the University Skating Rink two afternoons each week during the season, and many girls took advantage of this opportunity.

Hockey has long been one of the most popular inter-class sports sponsored by the W.A.A. At the end of every season an honorary team is chosen composed of the best players from class teams. This fall hockey players from the University of Illinois competed in a Play Day at Normal University.

Terrapin presents its annual water carnival on Mothers Day. This carnival features graceful diving and swimming formations, to the delight of the many mothers who attend.

Tennis and archery are two sports offered during the spring season. Each season consists of a practice period climaxed by a tournament. Lois Keene was the winner of this year's tennis tournament, and Effie Frye captured the archery honors.

Student-faculty co-operation in the government of campus publications is provided through the Illini Board of Control, made up of four faculty members and four students.

While the heads of the individual publications have control of their own activities, the Board exercises fundamental supervision in the determination of financial policies and the affairs of the Illini Publishing Company as a whole.

Another important function of the Board is the election of the publication heads, which takes place each year in the spring. Each member of the Board interviews the candidates and votes according to his decision for the best interests of the publications.

The Board of Control, set up in 1911 to remove several undesirable elements in the operation of the publications, was modified in 1922 with the addition of a fourth faculty member.

The system as operated since 1911 has led to continuity in policy and the development of great efficiency in the management of publication affairs.

DONALD S. HOEBEL.....Company Manager

Chartered May 11, 1911 by the State of Illinois as a corporation not for profit, the Illini Publishing Company has since issued and supervised all student publications at the University.

Controlled by a student-faculty board of directors and administered by an expert professional staff, the company has developed into one of the leading college publishing companies in the country. It has served as the model for other universities in their efforts to co-ordinate and control the operation of student journalistic endeavors. A business manager, who is in charge of the business offices and advises the publication managers, aids in carrying out the policies of the Illini Board of Control.

The company has grown in the twenty-five years of its existence until it maintains a plant valued at more than $80,000. It controls The Daily Illini, student newspaper which serves the entire county as a morning paper, The Illio, one of the leading college annuals in the country, and The Siren, The Technograph, the Illinois Agriculturist, and smaller campus publications.

The company has maintained a high credit standing from year to year and by its efficient management has enabled student publications on the campus to advance to increasingly high levels.

Since 1924 the Illini Theatre Guild has presented undergraduate dramatics at the University of Illinois. The Guild controls the activities of its member organizations and co-ordinates them in such a way that all of them may have the benefits of each other's resources. Mask and Bauble, Pierrots, and Arepo are the major undergraduate members, while the Faculty Players Club is a patron member and the Woman's League an associate member. The management of the Theatre Guild is under a Board of Directors composed of members from each of the five member organizations. They are assisted by two faculty members appointed each year by the President. Professor H. N. Hillebrand and Professor A. R. Knight have contributed their interest and experience to this service in their capacities as the University representatives since the Guild's inception.

The Guild's repertoire for the 1935-36 season included five plays by Mask and Bauble, and an opera and a light opera by Arepo. In addition there was a musical comedy, "Of Thee I Sing," given by the Woman's League, two plays by the Players Club, and a revue by Pierrots.

In the spring of 1917 the University Concert and Entertainment Board was organized under the name of Star Course. It had a Board of Advisers consisting of the Director of the School of Music, the Comptroller, a member of the faculty selected by the Council of Administration with a view to acting in an advisory capacity concerning dramatic attractions, and two members elected annually by the Philomathean and the Adelpic Literary Societies. The Comptroller was selected to be ex-officio chairman of the Board, and the faculty members were to serve for two years. The managers were selected from the literary societies for each season's course.

In 1931 the University Concert and Entertainment Board was created to take over the Star Course and its related activities. The function of this Board was to supervise all concerts and public entertainments given in University buildings by professional artists and organizations. The membership of the Board was to consist of four faculty members and four students. This Board was also to act in electing a senior student manager for each year and such junior managers and sophomore assistants as it was considered desirable. In 1933 the Board began the custom of electing a senior woman to assist as associate manager.

The University Concert and Entertainment Board has brought the very finest of cultural entertainment to the campus. We are indeed fortunate in having such an organization to bring to us these world famous artists at a price within the reach of almost every student.

STAR COURSE

The tradition of high quality entertainment obligated this year's management of the Star Course to offer a varied program of world renowned artists.

The season opened on October 23rd with Jascha Heifetz, whose name will remain immortal as one of the world's greatest violinists. On November 13th the Don Cossack Russian Male Chorus presented an unusual and varied program of lovely folk songs, Russian church music, and stirring Cossack songs. Jose Iturbi, who is considered one of the great pianists of our day, gave proof of his genius with a concert on January 15th.

Lovers of the dance were entertained on February 6th by the Jooss European Ballet, famous throughout the entire world of theatre. The dance was given a new meaning, projecting impressions of the fantastic and often sardonic commentaries upon people and events. The outstanding feature of the program was the presentation of "The Green Table," which won first prize at the International Congress of the Dance held in Paris in 1932.

By popular request the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra appeared on February 18th with Vladimir Golschmann conducting. As has been the custom in former years, a matinee performance was presented for the school children of the county.

STAR COURSE

Helen Jepson, Metropolitan Opera soprano, concluded the regular Course on March 24th. Possessor of a rare voice of beautiful color, along with a most pleasing and glamorous personality, she is truly a magnetic artist.

As added features this season, the Star Course presented the St. Olaf Lutheran Choir, America's foremost a capella choir, under the direction of F. Melius Christiansen, and the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, the most exciting event of the year. The latter, faultless in content, leadership, and performance, was a fitting close to the season. Prestige and popularity have wrought great changes with this great organization. In 1900 it carried 85 men and gave six concerts. Today 106 men make up the orchestra and an average of 75 concerts are given during the year.

Bringing music to people all over the country, in every walk of life, has been the goal for which Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, has been striving for all his life. It was indeed a privilege for the University to have this famous conductor and his orchestra present a concert on this campus. His coming is ample proof of the endeavors of Star Course to bring to the campus the finest in cultural entertainment.

AMACO

On March 29 and 30, 1935, the Lincoln Hall Theatre resounded with the rhythmic pulsations of Martin Flavin's Pulitzer Prize play, "Amaco." This industrial play, presented by Mask and Bauble under the auspices of the Illini Theatre Guild, struck a new tone in the impressionistic theatre. Wesley Swanson directed the play, employing the principle of "constructivism," one of the newer methods in stage craft which uses three dimensional forms, stripped of non-essentials, in symbolizing the life of the modern industrial worker.

The story involves the life of two workers: one involved in Amaco's industrial system, and the other, a strike agitator. The set used for the play was a tremendous structure which filled the entire stage. On various levels of the structure took place the action of seven scenes that depicted the progress of this great factory from 1910 down to the depression of 1933. Behind the action throughout this play, boomed forth the metronomic throb that represented the heartbeat of "Amaco" which quickened with each episode. Don Bishop, as the strike agitator, and Joseph Miksak as James Burke, the man who would have owned the world and called it Amaco had he had the chance, did the most outstanding pieces of acting.

THE GONDOLIERS

The Illini Theatre Guild's presentation on April 12 and 13, 1935, of "The Gondoliers" marks another of Arepo's series of successful light operas. This production, under the direction of Kathryn Janie Sutherlin, was notable for its uniformly excellent singing and deft interpretation of comedy. With its flashing Gilbert and Sullivan wit, this comic opera gave the local theatre-goers so much pleasant enjoyment that a third performance in the Lincoln Hall Theatre on April 17, was necessary in addition to the regular performances.

The singing of the principals left little to be desired. Ted Hoffman and Nat Cohen gave great performances as Don Alhambra and The Duke of Plazo-Toro. The singing of Betty Moore and Helen Burt as Tessa and Cianetta was outstanding, as was the comedy of Alfred Georges and George Miller as Marco and Guisepppe. James Douglass made an excellent Luiz and Mary Bain Lehmann's lovely contralto was particularly pleasant in the role of the Duchess of Plazo-Toro.

Sir Arthur Sullivan's famous music was conducted by Lanson Demming and the technical effects were achieved under the direction of Richard Hadley. As light entertainment at its best, "The Gondoliers" was a charming invitation to the continuation of the Gilbert and Sullivan tradition.

THE LITTLE CLAY CART

On May 10, 11, 17, and 18, 1935, Mask and Bauble presented the last production of its 24th season, "The Little Clay Cart." Produced in the Classic Hindu manner, the play proved to be an unusual type of entertainment. Supposedly written by the Hindu, King Cudraka of Vidica, about the sixth century A. D., it was presented from a new translation of the original Sanskrit made especially for the Illini Theatre Guild by Revilo Oliver. An ambitious and artistic experiment, it aimed at the recapture of part of the mood and charm of the ancient Hindu theatre.

No efforts were spared to make the production as technically expert as possible. In addition to the correctness of set and costume, the actors were thoroughly schooled in the symbolical technique of the Hindu art. The scenery as designed by Fred Joerger and Robert Barrick was little short of exquisite and the especially designed costumes were authentic and picturesque.

Howard Wilson and Alta Lewis as the Brahman merchant and his mistress, and Richard Revell as Samsthanaka, the King's villainous brother-in-law, turned in excellent performances. To Edward Glass, as Carvilaka, the pedantic thief, goes the credit for the most charming bit of pure entertainment in the show.

NO MORE FRONTIER

The Illini Theatre Guild's first production of the 1935-36 season was Talbot Jennings' play, "No More Frontier." The action of this rather elaborate production progresses in its nine scenes through the early days of the West up to the present. It is the story of the changes in the life of Flint Bailey, who as an ambitious young pioneer, leaves his Indiana home to try his fortune on the Western frontier. He establishes himself as a cattle-rancher in Idaho. Here he marries his Indiana sweetheart and settles down to await the passing of the years. The frontier changes; he is beset by the improvements of civilization. He sees the ambitious generation grow up about him, restless and eager, even as was he himself. At the end he learns tolerance; he knows the frontier has passed, and he is reconciled.

David Pettigrew gave an excellent characterization of the older Flint Bailey in his struggle to adapt himself to the changing conditions of the West. Virginia Lounsbury presented a convincing portrayal of the woman whose love for her husband triumphs over her hate of the loneliness of the rugged frontier. Louis Hartman's voice and his swagger were perfect in the role of Colonel Perdum, the Eastern dandy.

Of the four large and complete sets, the old Western saloon scene with its fantastically decorated bar caused the most favorable comment. Lighting and other technical details were well carried out.

RIDDLE ME THIS

The success of last year's production, "Whistling in the Dark," encouraged the Guild to include another detective play in their repertoire for this year. The play chosen was Daniel Rubin's "Riddle Me This," the Illini Theatre Guild's presentation of November 8, 9, and 16, 1935. Having an unusually clever plot, the production did not follow the common trend of a mystery play. Instead, the audience saw the murder committed in the first act and the evidence accordingly arranged to entrap an innocent man. A humorous and always "snappy" dialogue made the play particularly adaptable for campus entertainment.

Mahlon Mercer did excellent work as Dr. Tindal, the physician who murders his unfaithful wife and tries to fasten the guilt for his crime on her lover. Klusman Parks as Kirk, the wise-cracking reporter whose efforts finally supply the solution to the tangled evidence, and Thomas Daily as his friend, the hard boiled sleuth, Detective Captain McKinley, capably portrayed the major roles. To Lon Porter and Dorothy Bim Merle as Jack and Julia Reed, a stony-faced gambler and his caustic-tongued wife, goes the credit for the most humorous bits in the show.

Expert staging and lighting of its five scenes made "Riddle Me This" excellent entertainment. It definitely proved the Guild's ability to present popular plays in a highly competent manner.

CARMEN

Arepo's presentation of Bizet's famous "Carmen" came to this campus on December 13 and 14, under the auspices of the Illini Theatre Guild. It represented Arepo's third grand opera venture in as many years. The show, directed by Kathryn Janie Sutherlin, was characterized by unusual vigor and freshness. Merimee's thrilling story with its romantic gypsy background was played to its exciting finish in a setting possessed of an immense wealth of color and a beauty of scenery.

The singing under the personal direction of Miss Sutherlin was a fine example of student voices in operatic roles. The roles of Carmen and Don Jose, taken by Florence Adams and James Douglass, respectively, were commendably sung. Wilson Dornaus, as Captain Zuniga, and Helen Burt, as Micaela, did brilliant work in supporting parts. Excamillo, the Toreador, was admirably sung by Charles Seldomridge. The choruses were of professional caliber, and Lanson Demming on the conductor's stand, assisted by Glenn Metcalf, gave an excellent interpretation of Bizet's magnificent music.

Costuming was authentic and lavish, and the technical effects, handled by Richard Hadley, were novel and adequate. The exotic and picturesque scenery, the work of Edward Glass, Buck Hubbard, and Fred Joerger, blended into a splendid background.

RHYME MARCHES ON

On February 3 and 4, registration days of the second semester, Pierrots presented its silver anniversary show, "Rhyme Marches On." This production was unique in that it had an all male cast, the women's roles being taken by men, and in that it was an intimate revue, a type of production seldom seen on this campus.

The show was composed of a series of blackout skits by such famous authors as George Kaufmann and Ring Lardner and a sprinkling of musical numbers, under the direction of Sol Cohen. Several of the skits were exceptionally well done. "Two Idles of the King," a ventriloquist act by Klusman Parks and Grover Shipton, was enthusiastically received. The women who attended will not soon forget the skit, "If Men Played Cards As Women Do," which reached a climax when Dick Revell began shaving at the card table. Others in line for commendation are Dave Pettigrew, Lon Porter, and Tom Daily.

The show was a decided success and gave to Pierrots its former place in the list of campus dramatic organizations. It was due to the efforts of Richard Hadley, who directed the show, that this fast moving revue was presented to campus theatre-goers. The memory of "Rhyme Marches On" will continue to march for some time.

MAN AND THE MASSES

Mask and Bauble's "Man and the Masses" came as a very worthwhile experiment in the social drama. Its dramatic presentation of the struggle between man as an individual and man as a member of the mass is truly an artistic creation. Three elemental forces fight for mastery. The Man (the husband) stands for the stern fascism of the State; against him is The Nameless One fighting for ruthless revolution; and between them stands the tragic figure of The Woman, symbol of humanity. Her fate is the tragedy of the idealist torn between her hatred for the relentless cruelty of the State and her belief in the sacredness of human life.

The excellent presentation by a cast of 200 represented a great personal satisfaction to Director Wesley Swanson. Mary Bain Lehmann was exceptionally outstanding in her role of The Woman. Klusman Parks as The Nameless One and David Pettigrew as The Man gave brilliant portrayals. There were also good bits from Richard Revell, Fern Nelson, and Helen Porter.

The play employed a modern style of production which added greatly to its interest. Under the technical direction of Richard Hadley the lighting was used to strengthen and interpret the succession of ideas and moods. The tremendous sweep of the set, designed by Edward Glass and Fred Joerger for the Auditorium stage, was exceptionally impressive. Weird organ preludes were especially composed and played by John Glenn Metcalf.

MUSIC

UNIVERSITY BANDS

The Illinois Bands are made up of three units: the Concert Band, the First Regimental Band, and the Second Regimental Band. Places in these bands are determined by examinations, and service in them takes the place of the required military drill and tactics. Those who continue in the Concert Band for more than two years receive free tuition as compensation for their services.

The Concert Band is composed of selected musicians whose main purpose is to study and perform as much of the higher forms of music as is possible. This band gives numerous concerts on campus and broadcasts every Monday afternoon over the University radio station, W I L L.

The influence of the Concert Band is felt over the entire country because of its co-operation with the Music Educators National Conference, and with the National and State High School Band Associations in presenting clinics for bandmasters. The First and Second Regimental Bands furnish music for military ceremonies and athletic events in addition to studying a certain amount of concert music. These two bands serve to train players for promotion to the Concert Band.

The "Football Band" of about 170 musicians is chosen from these three units. It performs at all home games and usually makes one or two trips each year. This band presents spectacular formations, stirring music, and a cappella singing. It is drilled by Mr. Mark H. Hindsley, Assistant Director of Bands.

UNIVERSITY BRIGADE

THE REVIEWING STAND

The Morrill Land Grant Act of 1867 forms the basis for military instruction at the University of Illinois. This act of Congress provided for donations of public land by the Federal Government to the several States for the endowment, maintenance, and support of colleges of agriculture and the mechanical arts on the condition that military training be a required course. In the same year, the act was accepted by the State of Illinois and a plan for military training was adopted by the University Board of Trustees.

From a single unit, the University of Illinois Reserve Officer's Training Corps has grown to a reinforced brigade containing nearly all branches of the service. The six regiments of the Cadet Brigade include Infantry, Cavalry, Field Artillery, Coast Artillery, Engineers, and Signal Corps. Each of these units is fully equipped to give the students both practical and theoretical training. Students in each branch of the service are given instruction in the functions and equipment of the other branches.

THE FIELD ARTILLERY

UNIVERSITY BRIGADE

THE COLORS PASS

Two courses are offered covering four consecutive years of work. The required basic course trains a man in the fundamental work and prepares him to be a corporal or sergeant in the Organized Reserves at the end of his two years' work. The advanced course is a continuation of the basic course. The cadet officers who comprise the Advanced Corps are given the rank of cadet second lieutenants and then advanced in rank as rapidly as ability and diligence permit.

In the summer, the student officers attend a six-week training session at camp, during which time they are given intensive practical training and an opportunity to apply the theory studied throughout the academic year.

Upon completion of the two years' work, the cadet officers are commissioned by the government as second lieutenants in the Organized Reserves. Further rise in rank depends upon the amount of time and the interest they devote to their military work.

The Cadet Staff is the student executive body of the University Brigade. It is composed of the Brigade Staff, the Cadet Colonel, and the Cadet Lieutenant Colonel of each of the six branches of service. The Brigade Staff consists of the Cadet Colonel, representing the unit of which he is a member, and the Cadet Majors of each of the other five units, representing their respective branches of service. This year the great increase in enrollment in Field Artillery necessitated the appointment of two cadet lieutenant colonels, both of whom are members of the Cadet Staff.

The functions of the Cadet Staff are, for the most part, to execute official orders and to provide information of military activities. The Executive Officer is the senior officer of the Brigade Staff, while the Adjutant is responsible for issuing all orders, and for other administrative clerical work. The efficiency of the entire brigade is dependent upon the harmonious functioning of this staff.

Inasmuch as practically all able-bodied male students have taken military training since the founding of this institution in 1868, as the Illinois Industrial University, the Military Department provides a point of interest common to a larger percentage of students than any other department on the campus.

From the beginning, the growth of the Military Department has paralleled that of the University. The R.O.T.C. as we know it today, had its inception in the National Defense Act of 1916, amended in 1920. The President of the University not only advocated but was instrumental in framing the part of that Act which applies to Land Grant Colleges.

The records of the Military Department and the previous forty-two volumes of The Illio show the changes through the years of the uniforms, available facilities, and enrollment.

The Commandant and staff are proud of the Military Department and the number and high quality of the Reserve Officers graduated annually. May the present cadets, in glancing through these pages in future years, derive as much pleasure therefrom as we have, in our work with them, during our assignment at the University of Illinois.

Military Council provides a crystallized statement of student opinion on all Military Department matters for the Professors of Military Science and Tactics. Thus, the student's viewpoint is considered in the determination of the policies for the R. O. T. C. In addition, the Council is the governing and coordinating body of the several units and organizations.

The Council is composed of twenty-three members; the Cadet Colonel, the Brigade Staff, the Cadet Lieutenant Colonels of each of the units, and representatives of each of the military organizations. The representatives of the organizations are elected each semester, while the others are automatically members of the Council as long as they keep their rank. There is also a faculty adviser chosen from the regular officers on duty at the University. With such an organization the Council is fully prepared to govern the various groups.

This year the Council has investigated and recommended a new award to be given to the outstanding sophomore in Pershing Rifles. As an added function, the Military Council will for the first time in five years publish the Millini for Military Day. The Millini will contain a statement of the Military Department and the program for Military Day.

In addition to their other duties, the Military Council supervises the student functions of the Military Department such as the Officers' Ball, the Military Ball, and the annual Military Show. All profits from these functions are turned over to the Military Special Unit Fund for administration by the University Commandant. This fund is used for purchasing new equipment and for making improvements not provided for by the state and federal governments.

I N F A N T R Y

A six week training period is given the Advanced Course students of the Infantry at Camp Custer, Battle Creek, Michigan, each summer. Students from the Universities of Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan and Michigan State, Knox and Ripon Colleges attend this camp.

The primary features of their instruction is the actual firing of all weapons used by the Infantry, including the rifle, automatic rifle, machine gun, automatic pistol, 37 m. m. gun, and the trench mortar. The students are also given the opportunity to apply principles studied by actually exercising command during various drills, firings, maneuvers, and camp administration. During the camp a practice march with an overnight bivouac and a night attack problem is given. There are two parades each week, inspections every Saturday morning, and one formal dance, at the "Post Tavern" in Battle Creek, on the Fourth-of-July.

CAVALRY

ROBERT D. POOLE
Lieutenant Colonel

The summer camp of the Cavalry Unit is held at Camp Custer, Battle Creek, Michigan. The purpose of this six week training period is to give the student practical experience as to the use and function of the different arms, and to give the student an opportunity to put into practice the theory studied during the school year.

Much attention is devoted to equitation and the care of horses and equipment. Familiarity with the use of special weapons with which the various units are armed is obtained by constant practice. For example, considerable time is given to marksmanship with the service rifle, the R. O. T. C. firing the course laid down for the regular army.

Every effort is made to impart instruction on the practical life of an officer in command of a platoon of his branch. It is felt that here lies the greatest value to the student and to the Government, which provides this training period.

GALE B. AYDELOTTE ROBERT H. MOATS
Lieutenant Colonel Lieutenant Colonel

FIELD ARTILLERY

The summer training period for the Field Artillery Advanced Course students is held at Camp McCoy. Here the students from the Universities of Illinois and Chicago are organized into a Battery of Field Artillery and function as such in administration and training.

The purpose of the camp is to supplement with actual practice the theory taught here at the University and equip the student for the duties of a second lieutenant. Service practice, mounted work, and actual field exercises are the main features of the work. Throughout the period the students perform all the offices from battery commander to private, each performing the various offices for a period of three days.

Strict discipline and absolute neatness of the camp is maintained by daily inspection. Any infraction of these rules is punishable by an extra hour of duty improving the camp site.

SIGNAL CORPS

EDGAR A. POST      JOHN R. WILLIAMS
Lieutenant Colonel    Lieutenant Colonel
Second Semester      First Semester

The Advanced Course students of the Signal Corps from the Universities of Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Ohio State, attend summer camp at Fort Sheridan. Here the men are organized into a company corresponding to a Division Signal Company. They carry on all the duties of camp life, including kitchen police, fatigue work, and guard duty.

The purpose of the camp is to give the students practical instruction in communication equipment, in the use of the pistol, and in the duties of company officers. Field problems designed to employ all communication equipment under practical conditions are also used in construction. Each student has his turn during the camp to carry out the duties of the company officers.

This preparatory training is for the final week, when the students from each school set up a communication problem and act as officers while the students from the other schools act as privates and non-commissioned officers. Each day a different school presents and carries out its problem.

HARRY L. HYNDMAN

ENGINEER CORPS

Members in the first year of the Advanced Course of the Engineers Unit attend a summer camp of six weeks at Camp Custer, Michigan. The purpose of the camp is to give the students experience in those military engineering activities which they are unable to get during the school year because of lack of space, equipment, and time. These involve riding, bridge building, both over land and water, firing the rifle and the pistol, construction of temporary fortifications, and handling and using explosives.

In addition to these, the usual parades and drills are held each day. The social and athletic aspects are taken care of by dancing, swimming, boxing, and playing baseball and tennis.

COAST ARTILLERY

HARRY K. NAGEL
Lieutenant Colonel

The Coast Artillery summer camp is located at Fort Sheridan, Illinois, on the shore of Lake Michigan in the midst of the "Gold Coast" of the North Shore suburban district of Chicago.

The principal purpose of the camp is to provide for the actual firing of all arms used by the unit, including the 155 m.m. gun, anti-aircraft gun, machine gun, rifle, and pistol. Marksmanship in the latter two weapons is stressed, and the students devote much of their time to rifle and pistol practice. Another feature is the practical application of commands. The men are instructed in the duties of all offices of the battery and are fitted for the duties of second lieutenant. The great strides made in aviation in the last few years have clearly indicated that the Air Service in any future war will be a powerful factor; thus, the students are given practice in firing at targets towed by airplanes.

The annual Military Ball with its usual multitude of resplendent uniforms and its martial atmosphere, was held in militaristic setting in the New Gymnasium, April 26, 1935. The largest turnout in many years welcomed the initial appearance on the campus of Kay Kyser and his orchestra, as 1250 couples thronged the dance floor.

Two anti-aircraft guns and armed guards commanded the entrance to the New Gymnasium, while the main entrance was flanked by two large military emblems, reaching to the balcony and bridged across the top by five shoulder stars. On the south wall was the conventional American eagle surrounded by waving flags which cast deep purple shadows on the silver background. Flood lights and huge fans were used to lend color to the martial atmosphere. The officers' lounge, located at the north end, was marked off by groupings of various unit guidons and stacks of rifles.

The climax of the evening was reached when, at ten-thirty, the grand march, led by Cadet Colonel A. E. Lawson and Cadet Lieutenant Colonel James C. Skorcz, passed in review before the R.O.T.C. Commandant, Colonel Fred R. Brown.

The Military Ball is held under the auspices of the Military Council, with the Cadet Colonel as chairman. Because of the policy of limiting attendance to military men, and a few outstanding civilians on the campus, the Military Ball is considered one of the most important dances of the social season.

The fourth annual Officers' Ball, given in honor of Colonel Fred R. Brown and the Regular Army Officers stationed at the University, was held February 8, 1936. Under the direction of the Military Council, Officers' Ball was presented this year exclusively for the officers of the Regular Army and the student officers.

The Gym Annex was decorated in the customary military style, including standards, colors, guns, and other equipment. The music was furnished by Allyn Wiese and his orchestra.

MILITARY REVIEWS

Once each year the University R.O.T.C. is inspected by the commanding officer of the Sixth Corps Area, or by his staff, and special awards are conferred on the cadets whose military work throughout the year has been outstanding. In honor of the occasion, the University takes a holiday while the entire reinforced brigade passes in review before the officials of the Regular Army, the President of the University and a host of visitors.

The University of Illinois R.O.T.C. is the largest and one of the finest student military organizations in the country, so Military Day is naturally a gala event on the University calendar.

A review is held every odd year for inspection by the members of the Appropriations Committees of both houses of the General Assembly. Last spring nearly 3700 members of the R.O.T.C. passed in review before these men and they were greatly impressed by both the excellence and the size of the Brigade.

The Group System endeavors to give to the Independent women opportunities to become better acquainted with one another and with activities on the campus, and thus they may enjoy the same opportunities that the members of organized houses do. Through this organization the Independent women and the sorority women work together. This was the first organization of its kind on any campus.

Each fall a personal invitation to become a member of some group is sent to every University woman not living in an organized house. The Twin Cities are divided into geographical sections, and the Independent women in each section comprise a group. Each group has its own parties, meetings, dances, teas, and dinners. In addition the Woman's Group System has a combined party every month for all the group members. Membership is voluntary and one may terminate or transfer membership at any time.

The Woman's Group System also upholds scholarship and furthers its attainment among Independent women by presenting a scholarship cup to that group having the highest scholastic average each semester.

Moving Back a Frontier

IT WAS the spring of 1837.

The frontier village of Grand Detour hummed with activity. In little knots, the settlers gathered around the general store, at the sawmill, at the shop of Grand Detour's blacksmith, John Deere. No stage coach, bringing word of the folks back east; no breathless rider, carrying tidings of Indian warfare, had created this stir.

Far deeper than these was the force that set the small village humming that morning in 1837—for here was the genesis of a new idea; the beginning of a new hope that was to stir a great nation from its formative growing pains.

For weeks, now, there had been talk of a new plow, a plow that would shed the rich prairie soil in the years after the virgin sod was turned. There was talk of a man with vision enough to conceive a new idea; with foresight sufficient to carry it through to realization.

Almost daily, the pioneer villagers had seen the young blacksmith carrying his plow into the field; had watched him return, disappointed, but not discouraged. They had heard the rhythmic beat of his hammer far into the night as he worked to perfect the great idea.

"No plow will work in this gluey bottom land," said the skeptics. "John Deere had better use his time taking care of his shop. Why play with a steel plow, anyway? There's plenty of timber land to be cleared, where the plows we have will work."

"John's got the right idea. If his steel plow will do the work, this rich prairie soil will feed the world."

Today, nearly a century later, the story of the great idea that pushed back the frontier, and the vision and foresight of the man who conceived it, are known wherever civilized man tills the soil. It is reflected in the ten great John Deere Factories where skilled workmen carry on in the tradition of the founder—that no obstacle to progress is insurmountable where skill and persistence are combined with vision and foresight.

Telephone Your Boy At School

DURING the school year, "visit" your children away at school by telephone. Long Distance telephone service offers you an opportunity to keep in close touch with their school activities. If you prefer, have the children telephone home regularly and reverse the charges so that they will appear on your home telephone bill. A telephone call takes but a few minutes away from feverish school programs and the cost of the call is always moderate. Bell System lines reach everywhere.
